Hanson Urges Canadian Division Be Sent To Australia

Conservative House Leader Attacks Plan To Hold Plebiscite

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—(CP)—Opposition to the holding of a plebiscite to release the government from anti-conscription pledges was embodied in an amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, moved by Conservative House Leader Hanson in the House of Commons today.

The amendment expressed regret that the government sought to "evade their responsibility by holding a plebiscite."

It also expressed regret the government had not recommended to the house measures for complete mobilization to the end that the nation might wage total war in any theatre of war, to supply the needs of agriculture, industry and the fighting forces and to prepare for the post-war period.

Denounces Government's Plan

Early in his speech the Conservative House Leader urged despatch of a Canadian division to Australia and coupled this with sharp denunciation of the government's proposed plebiscite.

He opened debate on the Speech from the Throne.

He described the proposed plebiscite as humiliating to the loyal people of Canada and "a subterfuge to help the Prime Minister out of an impossible position, created by himself, and with a sole desire to perpetuate his political power."

"Why should not this Dominion send a division of trained men to Australia?" he asked.

PROOF OF SOLIDARITY

It would be more than a gesture of good-will. It would be a demonstration of support and solidarity which would grip the imagination of all our people, who have been thrilled by the exploits of the gallant Australians in Libya, in Greece, in Malaya, in every theatre of war.

"If we have not a division of trained men in Canada available—and apparently we have not—then send one of our divisions now in England and replace them by men from Canada."

Instead of holding a plebiscite it was the prime minister's duty to come to parliament, state his new policy of compulsory service for overseas and ask for the endorsation of the people's elected representatives.

The people had delegated their power to speak to the members of parliament.

"I beseech the prime minister while yet there is time to alter his purpose, to adopt the manly course, to give to the country that measure of national leadership for which it is so earnestly looking and seeking at this time of gravest crisis in the world's history," said Mr. Hanson.

"This house will support him. The nation will support him."

OUTLINES "BLUEPRINT"

Mr. Hanson delivered a speech of about 8,000 words and gave to the house what he said was his "blueprint of the principles underlying a total war effort for Canada today."

They follow:

1—To muster, equip and train as many and as strong forces as possible, to meet and defeat the enemy in whatever theatre of war he may be found.

2—To defend Canada and prevent the invasion of Canada.

3—To mobilize, by any and every necessary means, the wealth and material resources of the nation, in order to provide the implements of war for our armed

Accused Slayer Mentally Able To Stand Trial

Reports by medical officers who examined Chesley W. Johnson, Edmonton, who went on trial in supreme court Monday before Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor and a six-man jury on a charge of murdering Dorothy Maxine Hammond, 14-year-old Edmonton school girl, on Nov. 15 last, revealed nothing that would indicate the accused was mentally unfit to stand trial.

This information was given to the court by Crown Prosecutor J. W. McClung, K.C., when Mr. Justice O'Connor asked prosecuting and defense counsel if there was any question of the accused's ability to plead.

Hugh Calsia Macdonald, K.C., counsel for Johnson, said "there was nothing in the medical reports that would indicate inability of the accused to stand trial at the present time." He said that he had been afforded the greatest assistance by the crown in having accused examined.

APPEARED CALM

Johnson, who was seated between two R.C.M.P. constables in the dock, appeared calm and answered to the charge in a clear voice. He sat with folded arms during the roll call of the jurymen gazing calmly ahead.

Johnson is charged with murdering the 14-year-old girl on the night of November 13. She was found on an avenue between 110 and 111 streets suffering from multiple knife wounds, from which she died short-

Egg Bonus Will Aid Poultrymen

A bonus of three cents a dozen is to be paid by the Dominion government on all grade "A" eggs shipped on present contracts to Britain, according to information received from the Alberta department of agriculture.

The bonus is to be paid on "A" medium and "A" large eggs but not on "A" pullets as these are not shipped overseas.

Although the bonus is only paid on export eggs, it will have the effect of raising the paying prices to the producer on all grade "A" medium and large eggs by three cents up to May 31. This means that for export centres of Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge grade "A" large eggs should not go below 26 cents up to the end of February and 23 cents for March, April and May. Grade "A" medium eggs are one cent a dozen below grade "A" large eggs.

While the 1941 export contracts allowed 40 per cent grade "B" eggs, the present contract, calling for 1,000,000 cases by May 31, allows for only 12 per cent grade "B".

All Of Canada Will Be Put On Daylight Time

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—(CP)—All Canada will go on daylight saving time on Feb. 9, coincident with similar action in the United States, Munitions Minister Howe told The Canadian Press today.

At present daylight saving time is in operation in most Ontario and Quebec municipalities as a measure to make available to war industry the greatest possible amount of power.

It was indicated that the order-in-council extending daylight saving time to the whole dominion now is in process of being drawn up and probably will be made known shortly.

Last Friday Mr. Howe said extension of "fast time" to the whole country was under consideration.

Japan, seven weeks after losing her whirlwind conquest campaign, is master of the China sea but still as far from her goal as is her Nazi accomplice in Russia. The goal in both cases is oil, the lifeblood of modern war machines and modern industry.

Hitler's armies have looted much of the continent of Europe without striking oil. His Russian "crusade" started back-pedaling while still 1,000 miles short of the Irah wells in the Caucasus that make the Caspian sea coast a treasure trove.

STIMSON REVEALS

U.S. Troops In Ireland

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(BUP)—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson announced today that U. S. army troops under command of Maj. Gen. Russell P. Hartle have landed in northern Ireland.

Stimson made the announcement in the first extraordinary communique issued by the war department since the ouiset of the war.

Stimson did not make public the designation of the units, their make-up or strength.

Similarly, he did not disclose the "ports of embarkation, dates of sailing or other details" of the troop movements from the United States.

It was the first known movement of American troops as such to Europe during the current war, although some technicians have accompanied Canadian units to Britain for training and have gone to Libya and elsewhere for similar purposes.

Gen. Hartle, the commander of the troops, is a native of Chewaville, Md. He is 52. He served in the Philippines, on the Mexican border and is a World War veteran.

American civilians have been at work building bases in Northern Ireland for several months.

The ultimate destination of the American troops was not revealed nor were any details given as to their probable employment.

The announcement was made at the war department amidst extraordinary precautions to prevent premature leakage of the information.

RUNNING BATTLE

27 Nippon Ships Sunk Or Damaged

By The Canadian Press

United States and Netherlands sea and air forces, locked in a great, running battle with a Japanese invasion armada in the Strait of Macassa, have sunk or damaged at least 27 transports and warships in the four days of fighting and may have shattered an attempt to invade Java, the heart of the United Nations' defence in the southwest Pacific.

The next few days will tell in what strength if any, the Japanese armada was able to negotiate the narrow shortcut to the inner arc of the Netherlands East Indies.

The Japanese, however, won at least one foothold on this sea road to Java—the Netherlands oil port of Balik Papan, on the strait-side of the island of Borneo, but the size of the invasion fleet indicated that Tokyo is shooting for higher stakes to the south.

The Strait of Macassa is the most direct route between Japanese concentration points in the Philippines and the rich island of Java on which the United Nations have centred their supreme command and much of their armed strength.

Soerabaja, the great Netherlands naval base, for example, lies less than 350 miles southwest of the southern mouth of the strait.

Russians Mop Up Vast Areas On Long Front

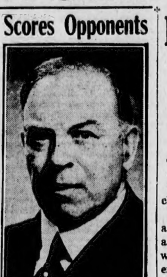

MOSCOW, Jan. 26. — (AP) — Winter-toughened Russian soldiers, taking full advantage of the coldest weather in recent decades, were reported today mopping up vast areas of the long German-Russian front after practically wiping out Hitler's winter line.

(Hitler himself, a Stockholm report broadcast by the BBC said, has fled westward with his personal headquarters from Smolensk, now endangered by the Russians, to Minsk, capital of White Russia 430 miiest west of Moscow.)

Clean-up operations were reported in full swing in the area east of a 270-mile line running from the vicinity of Smolensk, 230 miles west of Moscow, to Orel and Kursk. There was no information on exact-

Scores Opponents

Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, who charged in the House of Commons Monday that the government's opponents, on the single issue of conscription, were seeking to confuse the public on Canada's war effort.

Conservative Frenzy Abates On Plebiscite

By GRANT DEXTER
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 26.—The outcry in the Conservative-National Government Press against the plebiscite continues this morning but the shrill, almost frenzied note of antagonism is absent. There is no repetition of the suggestion that the Conservative opposition should obstruct the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

The distinctively National government opposition takes the line as expressed in a column and a half leader in the Ottawa Citizen, that as the anti-conscription pledges given by Mr. King, the best solution is for Mr. King to resign. This, of course, would be achieving two objectives—avoiding the plebiscite and obtaining a National government.

The Montreal Gazette makes no further comment on the plebiscite except that the Citizen's leader appears as a front page news item in the Montreal paper.

"NATIONAL HUMILIATION"

The Ottawa Journal, this morning, calls upon individual members of the cabinet to prevent the plebiscite from being held. It appeals to Ralston, Howe, Ilsley, Power and Mac-

Increase In Striking Power Of Forces Said Chief Aim For 1942

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—(CP)—On the single issue of conscription for army service overseas the government's opponents were seeking to "confuse the public mind" on the entire war effort, Prime Minister Mackenzie King declared in the House of Commons today.

Speaking in the debate on the address, immediately after Conservative House Leader Hanson, who spoke against a plebiscite when he opened the debate, Mr. King said there was no difference between the government and its opponents except on the single issue of overseas conscription.

Long Ovation For Prime Minister

Mr. King was given a long ovation from his followers when he took the floor shortly before five o'clock.

After congratulating the mover and seconder of the address, he began to read from a carefully prepared speech of some 15,000 words.

The opposition's amendment, just moved by Mr. Hanson, made no reference to conscription although Mr. Hanson had mentioned it frequently in his address, Mr. King said.

He did not expect congratulations from Mr. Hanson, but he did expect him to stand up to what was understood to be Conservative policy.

There had been perhaps a little too much controversy in the press prior to consideration of vital matters in the House. The government and the opposition were closer than perhaps was recognized.

Urges True Picture Of War Effort

"What I do wish to suggest is that members get a true picture of Canada's war effort as a whole," Mr. King said.

Concentration on a single effort should not be allowed to obscure the effort as a whole. If he had gathered the opposition leader's opinion rightly, it was that he should ignore the peoples' will as expressed at the last general election. The government had been returned with its pledge of no conscription for overseas.

There were "strong reasons" why the people should be told why any past commitment was a thing which should be removed.

The opposition leader had asked Mr. King what he proposed to do in case of certain results in the vote on the plebiscite. Mr. King said that in seeking release from present commitments he was not going to bind himself by making commitments for the future.

There were three phases of the government's war policy which should be kept separate and distinct, Mr. King said.

Position Being Misrepresented

These were "total effort to meet total war," "national selective service as a means to this end," and "the application of compulsion without restriction of any kind."

With respect to each of these, the prime minister said, "the government's position is being misrepresented."

In all respects the policies of the government and its opponents were identical, except on the question of compulsory service outside of Canada.

This issue was further narrowed because of the fact that the compulsory angle applied only to the army since the navy and air force were obtaining all recruits they could handle under the voluntary system.

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—Canadian army plans for 1942 will concentrate on adding armament, mechanization and striking power to Canadian land forces, it is understood, and the existing overseas corps of three infantry divisions and an armored division will be transformed into a two-corps army in which one corps consists of three highly mechanized infantry divisions and the other corps of two armored divisions.

Announcement of the details are expected in an important speech to parliament by Prime Minister King later today.

The main additional formations in the new army will be a brand new armored division, which is understood to evolve changing the present fourth division from infantry to armored status, and a new tank brigade. The three division infantry corps will have two tank brigades, including one already in existence in Britain. There will be new corps units to complete the new army formation.

INCREASE IN COST

On the personnel side, the new army will require a commander-in-chief with the rank of full general, and two lieutenant-generals. On the cost side, the new army will require a budget of a billion dollars in 1942-43 compared with $800,000,000 for army in the present year.

Mr. King's speech will outline vital principles affecting the shape of the Canadian war effort in the next 12 months. Before he takes the floor in parliament today, Hon. R. B. Hanson, leader of the opposition, offered an amendment to the speech from the throne demanding total war effort.

In addition to army plans, Mr. King is expected to disclose the wording of the plebiscite question on which the Canadian people are to vote. He is expected to ask for a completely free hand on conscription and pledge his government to use conscriptive powers wherever and whenever necessary. He may foreshadow actual use of such powers. Another important matter expected to be dealt with will be settlement of the British war debt.

HEAVILY ARMORED

Military plans, it was understood, are designed to make the Canadian army one of the most heavily armored, most mobile and most powerful military formations for its size in the world. The new army involves a flow of reinforcements of 6,500 men a month. The new armor-

DOZEN CIVIL WARS ARE BREWING

Revolutionary Europe

Is Germany headed for a gigantic collapse? If so, when and how will it come? An attempt to explain that riddle which baffles a war-torn world is presented in a new eyewitness series by David M. Nichol, just returned from 16 months in Central Europe. The Bulletin herewith presents Mr. Nicol's third article.—EDITOR.

By DAVID M. NICHOL

Copyright, 1942, by the Chicago Daily News and The Edmonton Bulletin

A dozen civil wars are brewing within Europe in addition to the general revolt against Nazism that will boil over the moment Hitler's awful grip is weakened.

So far they are formless and leaderless. It Hitler wins they may never occur, for Hitler's Gestapo is frantically building barriers against them, in France and Italy, in the Balkans and the low countries, in Scandinavia, wherever they have penetrated as allies or enemies, and the Gestapo is one of the world's most efficient organizations in its line.

David M. Nichol

Should these civil wars take place they will have a common and related basis, however. They will be more than political upheavals in the limited sense. They will be savage attacks on a system that permitted, or at least took no positive measures, to avoid the fearful predicament in which the entire continent now finds itself. They will be economical and social.

It is too early to say with any certainty in what specific form these may appear. Despite Hitler's contentions that he is saving Europe from Bolshevism by fighting the Russians, I doubt very much if these revolts will be communistic, as the world has previously known communism.

Some of these outbursts may seem on the surface to be paradoxical. It is entirely possible, for example, that the Spanish Bourbons may be restored and the Bulgarian house unseated in the wave that sweeps over Europe. Italy's throne may be shaken from its rotten foundations and the puppet Duke of Spoletta, unable so far to visit his Croatian kingdom because of the dangers involved, may never see Zagreb.

The fate of the Darlans and Quislings and Musserts needs scarcely any comment. They will be the first to disappear, perhaps even in upsets preliminary to the

Dominions' Plea For Seat In War Cabinet Supported

Australian Stresses Deficiency Shown In Machinery At Present

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN

Copyright, 1942, by the Chicago Daily News and The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The demand for a greater participation by the dominions in the direction of the Imperial war effort was increased today with the publication in the London Times of a special article by the former Australian premier, Robert Gordon Menzies, in support of the Australian demand for a seat in the war cabinet.

In this article Menzies stresses the deficiencies of the present consultative machinery, which allows the Dominions and Whitehall to exchange information through Dominion High Commissioners in London and British High Commissioners in Dominion capitals and he points out that "there would be great merit in a joint empire executive during this great crucial war of common concern to all."

Stoneman

At the same time, Menzies explains that such an executive is scarcely possible due to Canadian and South African reluctance to join in such a joint body and because of British constitutional objections to it. The latter is based on the fact that the presence of a Dominion representative in the war cabinet would impair the responsibility of the cabinet to the British Parliament and the Prime Minister's authority over the cabinet.

EXCLUSIVE

OUT OF TOUCH

Menzies also points out that since the war cabinet sits in London a Dominion's representative "would be cut off by many thousands of miles from his home government and probably, if experience proves anything, would fairly soon be suspected of being out of touch with the view of his country."

Here Menzies is referring to his own sad experience with the home folks when he attempted to represent them briefly at Whitehall.

Menzies expresses the belief that these difficulties would prevent the Australian representatives on the war cabinet from producing all of the brilliant results anticipated by some Australians. Yet, despite them, he believes that Australian interests would be well served by having a representative constantly sitting in Downing Street. Such a person, he believes, would be able to guard the country's interests at times when it was not evident to Britishers that the decisions they were taking directly affected her. It would also, he believes, have an encouraging psychological effect on Australians as a whole to know that one of their own people was being let in on the inside.

INTER-ALLIED COUNCIL

"Alternatively," he concludes, "there is the question of a supreme inter-allied council. With the war raging in Europe and Africa, on the Atlantic and Pacific, and in the far East, the most urgent questions of priorities, joint supply distribution, and naval, military and air forces begin to crowd in upon us all. Are these questions to be answered in London or by international negotiation? Are we to have a central body directing world strategy or are we to set up control by zones? Personally I do not believe conferences can conduct wars. There must be great executive power in some person or group.

"Whatever, we in Australia have a vital interest, our playing our part as we believe, honestly and zealously, and are entitled to some kind of executive and directive representation. If an empire controlling body, yes. If a Pacific controlling body, equally yes."

Heavy Blows Dealt To Big Jap Armada

from the Java headquarters, Batavia, and Washington, follows:

DESTROYED

Nine transports, one destroyer.

DAMAGED

A warship, unclassified as to type, five cruisers, two destroyers, nine transports.

The damaged ships, hit by bombs or torpedoes, include at least five transports probably sunk and a cruiser which may have gone down. The submarine which torpedoed it was so resisted that it was impossible for its command to determine the result of the hit.

The battle started on Thursday afternoon when Indies airmen, roaring out from their jungle-shielded bases, scored 12 direct hits with heavy and medium calibre bombs on eight ships.

United States naval and air forces joined in the attack on the following day and the hot, equatorial waters of Macassa Strait were churned by bombs and torpedoes from flying fortresses, light and heavy bombers, submarines, cruisers and destroyers.

Slight damage to one United Nations warship was the only naval damage acknowledged so far as the cost of the attack.

The losses inflicted were the heaviest of any counter-action since the Japanese launched their grand offensive in the southwest Pacific region on Dec. 7.

MALAYAN FIGHTING

In the Malayan battle for Singapore, the Japanese pounded steadily with the help of swarms of bombers, and British headquarters said the invaders had captured Batu Pahat, the western anchor of the British defence line, 60 miles northwest of Singapore.

Earlier there were reports that the Japanese had resorted once more to their familiar infiltration tactics to turn the British left flank at Batu Pahat.

Fighting also was heavy near Kluang, 50 miles north of Singapore, where the Japanese are attempting to move down the main railroad to Singapore.

British headquarters said that early this morning an enemy convoy, including warships and two merchant ships, was sighted by British planes off Endaul, 85 miles north of Singapore on the Malayan east coast. British troops already have fallen back from Endau.

SURPRISE FOR JAPS

British headquarters made no attempt to minimize the seriousness of the situation along the 80-90 mile front but it was stated that there were "some nasty surprises" in store for the Japanese.

In the Australian area, a communique from Melbourne announced the Japanese occupation of Kavieng, in New Ireland, and the Japanese in Tokyo announced the town had been completely taken over.

The Japanese operations there had broadened over a broken front extending almost 1,000 miles from northern New Guinea east to Florida Island in the Solomons. Jungle-trained Australians were battling invasion forces in the hills of New Britain and New Ireland.

At Perth Prime Minister Curtin declared:

"Australia is for Australians. It is a white Australia. With God's blessings we shall keep it so."

Donald to save the country from "National Humiliation."

The Globe and Mail is more reserved than hitherto and while opposing the plebiscite, suggests that Mr. King should clarify the position and make plain what he proposes to do.

Behind the scenes there is evidence of a rather sharp cleavage between the Meighen Conservative group in Toronto and the Conservative caucus in the House of Commons. It appears that Mr. Meighen and his friends are the real driving force behind the policy of obstruction. The Conservative caucus, however, when such a course was discussed last Friday was definitely of a different view. The Conservative members felt that it would be unwise to blockade. They thought that Mr. King's reply to such a course would be a general election and they believed that this would be undesirable.

It is thought that Hon. R. B. Hanson's speech this afternoon will make clear which course will be followed.

ly after admission to a city hospital. Johnson was arrested three days following the crime and charged with the murder.

A huge crowd had assembled at the courthouse Monday morning long before the outer doors to the building had been opened. They jammed against the courtroom door, and when court officers opened the court room a rush developed which looked for a time as if it would result in serious injuries to some of those seeking admission.

Cries of help came from several female voices, and R.C.M.P. officers took immediate steps to regulate the crowd.

Veteran officers of the court said the stampede to gain admission to the court room was unprecedented in the history of murder trials in Edmonton.

Many of those unable to gain admission stayed in the corridors in the hope they could later find a seat.

SELECTION OF JURY

Preliminaries of the selection of the jury were quickly disposed of. The jurymen were sworn from the first 15 names taken from the box by Clerk Thomas Henderson. Five jurors were ordered to stand aside by the crown, while Mr. Macdonald challenged four for cause. He intimated that this challenge was made to ascertain if the juror had any preconceived ideas concerning the case.

Jurors selected were: Russell J. Bradley, 10983 125 street; Guy Armstrong, Fort Saskatchewan; C. R. Bowerman, 10718 83 avenue; Alex Cockburn, 11435 95 street; John Jenkins, R.R.1, Bremner, and Earl Graham, Namao. Mr. Justice O'Connor released the balance of the jury from service until 2 p.m. Tuesday. This would indicate that court officers anticipated the trial will be completed early Tuesday.

In his opening address to the jury, which lasted less than five minutes, Mr. McClung told the jurors the following: Dorothy Hammond left her home to go to a city theatre on the night of November 15. There would be evidence by her mother that she had permission to go to a theatre and that she had been requested to return home immediately after the show.

A doorkeeper would testify she visited the theatre at which he is employed, Mr. McClung declared. An eyewitness, A. J. Lajoie would tell the court of seeing two persons, a man and woman, walking along 98 avenue about 8:45 p.m. on the night of the murder. He would testify that the woman was walking slightly ahead of the man, that there appeared to be a struggle and that both fell to the ground, and that shortly afterwards the man jumped up and started to run down the lane. "This witness, Mr. McClung continued, "will tell you that he thought it was a lovers' quarrel."

STAGGER TO TREE

After the man had run away, continued Mr. McClung, the witness saw the girl get up and stagger to a birch tree located on the north boulevard of the avenue. Then a car came along and stopped. This car shone its lights on the object on the side of the road, and this witness, Mr. McClung said, would tell the court that was the first time he realized there was anything wrong.

He said that evidence would be adduced by witnesses that gloves and a knife owned by the accused were found in the lane near the scene of the crime. One of the gloves had blood stains on it a witness will testify.

First witness called by the crown was Douglas Thompson, of the city engineer's department, who produced blueprints of the streets adjacent to and of the scene of the crime. He was not questioned by defence counsel. The blueprints were admitted as exhibits.

Photographs taken of the scene of the crime and of the girl's body were identified by Det. H. S. Reynolds of the city police, and were placed in evidence by Mr. McClung These pictures were taken on Sunday, the day following the crime.

MOTHER TESTIFIES

Mother of the deceased, Mrs. R. M. Hammond, 9725 111 street, told the court that on the night of November 15 she gave her daughter permission to go to the Capitol theatre, but learned later that her daughter had gone to the Strand She was instructed to return home immediately after the show. She saw her daughter, and gave her permission to go to the show about 5:40 on that day, and did not see her again until she was called to the Misericordia hospital.

Mrs. Hammond, who wore deep mourning and was permitted to sit in the witness stand while giving her evidence, stated that her daughter was in good health.

A. J. Lajoie, 9802 110 street, testified that he was sitting in the kitchen of his home looking through the kitchen window facing west when he saw two persons pass. They were walking west, and appeared to be a man and woman. The woman was slightly ahead of the man. He said he did not continue to watch them, but was attracted by a scream. Then he saw them fall to the ground, the man on top.

He did not see the man rush at the woman, he testified. He could not see what was done while they were on the ground, and did not notice any arm movement by the man. He estimated that both were on the ground for a space of about 1½ minutes. Then the man got up and ran up the lane.

The girl then got up, he said, and staggered to a birch tree which she caught hold of. "She then disappeared from view and I could not say where she went," he added.

The witness testified that he told other people in the house that something was wrong outside and proceeded to dress fully when he saw a car stop and shine its lights on a figure lying beside the street curb.

Answering Mr. Macdonald, the witness fixed the time of the occurrence at 8:45 p.m. He said there was nothing about the manner in which the couple was walking to attract attention, in answer to another question from defense counsel.

INTERNE'S EVIDENCE

Dr. T. B. Letts, senior interne, Misericordia hospital, who attended the girl after her admittance to the hospital, said she was unconscious when he first saw her. There was dust and grime on her clothes and face, and the latter was covered with blood. Her clothes were saturated with blood.

She recovered consciousness and called for her mother. She swung her arms as if calling for assistance. She called for her mother several times, he added.

He said he endeavored to obtain her name, but the girl only managed to give her first name. The surname was given so quickly and indistinctly that it was unrecognizable.

He testified she was suffering from wounds caused by a very sharp instrument. These wounds were mostly on the chest and the back of hand. There were not less than 12 of them, he testified.

Dr. Letts said he endeavored to get information from the girl concerning her attacker. He asked her if it was a small or big man who had struck her, but she appeared to be repeating his question rather than answering it, he testified.

14 WOUNDS

Dr. A. J. Lobsinger told the court he first saw the girl at the hospital at 9 p.m. She was then in critical condition, was pulseless, and it was almost impossible to register heart beats even with a magnifying stethescope. She was suffering from 14 stab-wounds which he considered had been made by a very sharp knife.

Everything possible had been done to save the girl's life, he added, but she died at 9:35 p.m. He said the cause of death in his opinion was internal hemorrhage caused through laceration of the lung and left kidney.

Despatch Of Canadian Division To Australia Is Urged By Hon. R. B. Hanson forces and to provide for the other services which are necessary for the carrying out of total war.

4—To mobilize and organize Canadian agriculture to produce and supply to our armed forces and to our Allies as much food as it is possible to transport to them, as well as to our civilian population.

MOBILIZE INDUSTRY

5—To mobilize and organize Canadian industry to produce as great quantities of armament and munitions as our facilities and available materials will permit.

6—To build and man transport ships and more ships to carry our products of food, munitions and armament to the scene of conflict.

7—Finally, to mobilize and organize the material wealth and resources of the nation, and such of the personnel of its civilian population as are not immediately required for the armed force and other war services, to insure the continuance, under restricted conditions, of such peacetime activities and supplies as are reasonably necessary to maintain the physical and mental health of our own people.

Mr. Hanson asked what would happen if the plebiscite failed or was indecisive. He thought the Prime Minister's position would be impossible.

QUESTIONS VALUE

He questioned if the holding of a plebiscite would be helpful towards national unity and said there was no national unity anyway.

"We have only unity of the Liberal party," he remarked. "We shall never have national unity under a party government. The two are incompatible in wartime. . . .

"National unity will only come to Canada when we have a truly national government, representative of all the people and backed by all the people."

In arguing against the plebiscite the Conservative house leader said Mr. King had no mandate to declare war on Germany in 1939 nor on Japan in 1941 but was right in doing so. He had no mandate for price control but had imposed it.

DENIES TOTAL EFFORT

The prime minister often spoke of total war and total effort, he said, but everyone knew that up to the present Canada had not waged total war.

The Japanese attacks brought home to the Canadian people the need for more action.

"Because every one of us in this house, because every thinking citizen of this country, knows in this hour of grave national crisis we must, each for himself, determine that we shall have total war, come what may, I call upon parliament to deal, and deal at once, with that crisis," he said

"What happened at Pearl Harbor may happen at Esquimalt.

"What has happened 160 miles off the Halifax coast may happen at Halifax.

"What happened 80 miles off Long Island may happen at Sydney, Saint John or Quebec"

SELECTIVE SERVICE

Total war called for complete mobilization of the manpower, woman power and resources of the nation.

If that mobilization were to be effective it had to be selective.

The government had power to do this already, except for the limitation on compulsory overseas service, but had done little.

He said the limited use made of the powers of the National Resources Mobilization Act caused people to wonder whether much more would be done after a plebiscite.

Relief Cost Here At All-Time Low

Gross cost of unemployment relief in Edmonton in 1941 established an all-time low, it was announced by City Commissioner John Hodgson, Monday.

The number of families provided for in 1941 was correspondingly low, with 238 receiving unemployment relief as compared with 859 in 1940.

Total persons receiving unemployment relief in 1941 was 504, compared with 1,411 the previous year. Of the 238 families, 186 resided in the city and 52 in the country. In 1940, 722 lived in the city and 137 in the country.

Gross cost of unemployment relief last year was $213,877, compared with $606,919 in 1940. This is an all-time low, Mr. Hodgson stated.

Parley Adopts Allied Charter For Republics

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The political committee of the Pan-American conference today adopted a "charter of Rio de Janeiro" embodying for all 21 American republics the principles of the Atlantic charter worked out by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

Urges Conference

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organization, sent a telegram Saturday to Humphrey Mitchell, Canadian minister of labor, urging a conference to settle a three-months-old strike of 2,000 gold miners at Kirkland Lake, Ont.

ed division will involve an initial outlay of $155,000,000 more than the entire cost of the Canadian Corps in one year in the last war. The new tank brigade involves an initial outlay of $32,000,000.

Settlement of the British deficit will involve an outright gift of approximately one billion dollars in the coming fiscal year of 1942-43. Contrary to earlier Eastern reports, no cancellation of the existing deficit is to be made.

This deficit will amount to between $1.1 and $1.2 billions by the end of March. Final settlement of this debt is not decided, it is understood, but the new arrangement will prevent it piling up to astronomical figures that might bedevil post-war economic relations between Canada and Britain. Repatriation policy will still be followed with respect to Dominion securities and Dominion guarantees held in Britain and interest payments on provincial and commercial securities payable to British holders will be applied to reducing the British deficit. The principal values of provincial and all other Dominion securities will not be repatriated. After repatriation of dominion securities and diversion of interest payments on all other Canadian securities held in Britain, the balance of the British deficit in 1942-43 will be cancelled. This will amount to a billion dollars, it is expected.

Russians Mop Up Vast Areas On Long Front

ly how far from Smolensk the Russians were.

Russians said the Moscow region and that around Tula, 200 miles south of the capital, are "completely free of Germans," and that the Kalinin sector, 90 miles northwest of Moscow, is being cleared.

The Soviet information bureau's early morning communique announced recapture of Nelidovo, on the Moscow-Riga railroad, 170 miles northwest of Moscow and 50 miles west of Rzhev, Russian-encircled northern anchor of the crushed German front before Moscow.

This advance varies an ultimate threat to the Nazi legions between Leningrad and the Latvian border and the northern end of the important Leningrad-Kiev lateral railroad, much used by the Germans.

The Russians also announced a victory at sea—the sinking of a 5,000-ton German transport in the Barents Sea.

A Soviet communique supplement said planes yesterday destroyed five German troop trains, three infantry battalions and a cavalry squadron, 280 truckloads of troops and ammunition and four tanks.

ly. How deeply he has drawn upon his all-important reserve is only conjecturable; but the ebbing tide in German storage tanks already may spell out for him a grim prediction of ultimate defeat.

WELLS DESTROYED

Japan's China sea victories have been even more swift and stunning in extent that Hitler's march into Russia; and her objective was the same—oil. The wells of Borneo in the Netherlands Indies are rich with it and a prime oil field there, the island of Tarakan, is in Japanese hands, but not oil. It lies thousands of feet underground. The wells were destroyed by the Netherlands.

It would take months of uninterrupted labor to bore new wells on Tarakan, months the Japanese invader cannot hope to enjoy free of united nation air or even sea harassment.

That is the judgment of high placed Allied officials best informed as to just how effectively the gallant defenders of the Netherlands island carried out their "scorched earth" task. Most of them lost their lives or liberty to see that job through. The story of how it was accomplished will make a glowing page in the history of this war when fully revealed

EMPTY VICTORIES

Viewed from its all important oil angles the Nazi campaign in Russia and the Japanese drive down the China sea are off the same piece Both are or were victory-starred up to the German retreat—but they were empty victories.

They are alike, too, in another vital respect. Both represent peak efforts by the aggressors. Germany will never be as strong again as she was the day Hitler sent his armies into Russia. Never again will Japan's military power be as great as it was the day she struck at Pearl Harbor.

Yet the strength of the anti-Axis Allies both in power to resist and preparation to strike back on all world war fronts, is today but a token of what time will make it.

MAJOR ACTION

Axis Advancing In Desert Drive

CAIRO, Jan. 26.—(AP)—British headquarters indicated today the Imperial 8th army has been driven farther back in Libya by Lt.-Gen. Erwin Rommel's armored columns with the Axis forces apparently aiming to by-pass Bengasi in a major counter-offensive.

The new centre of the desert battle, placed by the communique north and north-east of Zouiet Msus, meant Rommel had advanced more than 40 miles from the Agedabia - Antelat - Saunnu triangle where a big tank battle raged during the week-end.

Zouiet Msus is 70 miles southeast of Bengasi, inland on the hump of Cirenaica, and fighting in that region means the British forces have withdrawn about 145 miles around the Gulf of Sirte from the high-water mark of their drive at El Aghella.

HEAVY R.A.F. BLOWS

The Axis' gains were partly offset, however, by news that the Royal Air Force had dealt smashing blows to a heavily escorted Axis convoy apparently bearing reinforcements to North Africa.

An R.A.F. communique said bombers and torpedo - carrying planes severely damaged and probably sank a 20,000-ton liner, set another transport on fire and crippled a destroyer.

Bomb hits were reported on another warship, believed to be a cruiser and on several other vessels.

The convoy, which included three large merchantmen in addition to the liner, was protected by a battleship, four cruisers and 15 destroyers, it was announced.

The R.A.F. said several bombs were dropped close to the battleship and several torpedoes were launched at her sides, but effects were uncertain.

The attack on the convoy, in the central Mediterranean, started Friday and continued more than 24 hours, the communique said.

Chinese Make Smashing Hit At Jap Base

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Gen. Chiang Kai Shek's newly-strengthened air force has delivered a new smashing attack on the Japanese air base at Hanoi, French Indo-China, while his soldiers on land are scoring successes against Japanese forces in three widely-separated parts of China.

An air armada of more than 70 Chinese bombers and fighters sprayed the Japanese base at Hanoi Saturday with 200 bombs and left the field a sea of flames, dispatches from Kunming said today.

Twenty miles north of Hong Kong Chinese forces recaptured Tamshui, east of the Canton-Kowloon railway, killing more than 400 Japanese, a headquarters communique announced.

ON OFFENSIVE

In western Hupeh province, in north central China. Chinese forces are attacking the Japanese west of Siangyang and northeast of Ichang, while in southern Hunan province, in central China, the Chinese were on the offensive north of Siangyang.

Swooping in low, the Kunming advices said, Saturday's Hanoi raiders were unmolested by Japanese planes and all carried out their missions and returned safely to their bases.

$16,000 Equipment Ruined In Blaze

VERMILION, Jan. 26—Drilling equipment valued at $16,000 was destroyed in a spectacular fire at the Princeville well here. The blaze started with an explosion and while the equipment which is owned by the General Drilling Co., Calgary, was a total loss, damage to the well was very slight.

The fire, preceded by an explosion which caused flames to shoot several hundred feet into the air, started at 6 p.m. and raged all night until it was brought under control by special chemicals early Sunday.

Destroyed was a complete portable rotary drilling rig, especially adapted to drilling in the shallow Vermilion field, and other equipment.

The drilling crew was just leaving the wells to go to Vermilion when the explosion occurred. Employees said the well had been "extremely lively" with gas all day. Flames soon started to burn the truck on which the rig was mounted, as well as two open pits of crude oil near the site.

The Princeville is owned by Premier Investments Ltd., Vancouver, and the Calgary drilling firm had started work on the well Friday, though drilling had been started in the spring.

No Raid Shelters

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The government officially turned thumbs down Sunday on the idea of building air raid shelters in the United States. It was announced that priority assistance for such construction would not be granted.

Post-War Aims Of Government Are Outlined

BRAMPTON, Ont., Jan. 26—Pensions Minister Ian Mackenzie cautioned against "national claustrophobia" as a possible result of increasing wartime restrictions, in an address here today, and outlined the government's plans for post-war reconstruction to aid in development of "A kind of economic system that rules out unemployment."

Speaking before a combined meeting of the Brampton Rotary and Lions' clubs, Mr. Mackenzie said he realized these restrictions tended to hamper freedom, but added: "These controls, and regulations, and restrictions are part of the price we have to pay if our national war effort is to be geared to maximum efficiency."

TROOPS BEAR BRUNT

Noting that the troops in active combat would bear the brunt of any attacks, he said "We must all bear many burdens."

He spoke of the work of the cabinet committee on demobilization and re-establishment, with its chief aims:

"First, to compensate, as far as humanly possible, for disabilities incurred as a result of their (discharged soldiers) participation in the war; and second, to conserve for the nation, as fully as possible, the maximum mental and physical efficiency of these handicapped members of our population."

He said the committee would provide treatment for men physically handicapped, and would give training courses to men handicapped by lack of trade skill. Two thousand ex-servicemen had been accepted for these courses so far.

He said there were 400,000 men in the armed service and another 700,000 engaged in production of war materials, "and it is stated by directing authorities in the munitions department that the number presently employed represents only about 60 per cent of those who will be required when expansion now in progress has been completed."

PREPARE PROGRAM

He further said, of this problem: "One of these days, the war will end. Then, this vast industrial activity will cease. Then, your customer will have gone out of business. Then, the armed forces will be demobilized and the industrial workers will be looking for other jobs. Roughly two-fifths of the people of Canada will have to find another job. . . .

"I do not believe there need be any crash—but certainly that is not too strong a word for what will happen if we do not have a program in complete readiness."

3 Girls Killed In Plant Blaze

THETFORD MINES, Que., Jan. 26—(CP)—Three girls were reported killed here today when fire broke out in a war industries plant and was followed by several explosions.

Police of this asbestos-mining town, 50 miles south of Quebec City, said that three girls were dead and that others "might be missing." They did not know whether any had been injured in the fire and explosions.

The fire broke out about 9:30 a.m. and still was burning an hour later, though police said it was under control.

Officers said the plant is known as the "Lynn McLeod Factory."

DAVID M. NICHOL REPORTS:

Dozen Civil Wars Brewing In Revolutionary Europe

General Revolt Against Nazism Will Boil Over As Hitler's Grip Weakens

wider and deeper cataclysms into which Europe is heading. The misnamed "representative" structures will certainly be revamped, and civil administrations, torn apart by the Nazis and their hirelings, must be almost completely rebuilt.

DANGEROUS AREAS

Because of their size and strategic importance, France, the conquered, and Italy, the ally, present for the Nazis the most delicate and dangerous areas. Reports of fatigue and unrest in Italy, of bitterness toward the Germans and towards the government that created the Axis lies are too persistent to be ignored. Under Nazi pressure "to do something" about these, the Italian government has reacted most sensitively recently and has altered some of the natural sources from which they came.

It hasn't so far been able to do anything about the emotional Neapolitan who blazes under cover of darkness when the British bombers come, "He's over there, why don't you go to Rome?" and waves the R.A.F. to the north with a heartfelt signal the flyers never see.

Sicily developed so many administrative weak spots that there has been a considerable transfer of officials between the island adjunct and the northern industrial regions. Italy's supplies of food and other goods have disappeared as thoroughly as those in any Nazi-conquered nation.

ITALY FEARS NAZIS

There are many indications that army and party circles themselves in Rome are unhappy about their allies and are veering towards a policy of passive collaboration like that of Vichy, a vastly different program than full-scale assistance. It is likewise confirmed on excellent authority that the Italians this fall have continued their efforts to fortify their borders with Germany —"the border of little faith," as the Italians refer to it.

The basis for revolt in France may be found in the opposition to the tiny segment of the French people who actually support Darlan's policies. It consists of industrialists, those who can still work for the Nazis; financial interests who ardently want peace before their economic structure is wrecked on the dual shoals of domestic ineptitude and Nazi bleeding, and political opportunists who have frankly elected for Nazism and will be wiped out if it fails. They are opposed by the bulk of the people.

Thinking Frenchmen in Vichy sense this uneasiness and are appalled at its possible consequences, but it is far more apparent in other parts of the country. The industrial suburbs of Lyon are seething with incohesive revolt while the factories in which they earned their living slow down and come to a halt. Parisians on leave in the unoccupied zone are amazingly indiscreet in their speech and actions.

"Five out of 10 Frenchmen in Paris are opposed to collaboration," joked one of them whom I met in Ly. "and four of the others are trying to get permission of the Nazi authorities to cross the demarcation line." He did not need to add that this was sufficient reason for them to keep their feelings guarded.

NOT COMMUNISTS

To label these people as Communists, which the Nazis and their Vichy hirelings understand, is the sheerest hypocrisy. They are patriots among whom the Communists represent only a small portion, with the advantage that they alone have any appreciable underground organization or leadership.

Spain, too, is fertile ground for rebellion. Bled white even before the Nazis loosed their continental upheaval, it now finds itself in the curious position where many of the warring factions want the same outcome for differing reasons. Much of the army has remained Monarchist throughout. Some of the Republicans—and they still exist in large numbers—believe a restoration offers the best means of ending the dictatorship and re-establishing constitutional government.

The Falange, the Nazi-organized equivalent of the S.S. whose influence was somewhat diluted when France opened its ranks to every Spaniard, probably would not oppose the return of the king, for its members feel it would be followed by a new collapse and would hoist the Nazi nucleus more firmly in the saddle.

BULGARIAN UNREST

Bulgaria's King Boris has sat an uneasy throne from the beginning of his government's dealings with the Germans. Bulgaria's people, by race and language are closely akin to the Russians. They are naturally distrustful of the Germans, but they learned about Nazi plans through correspondents who were paid agents in many cases, through a press that carefully concealed the truth, and a government that gave them no inkling of its program.

Shortly before Bulgaria's adherence to the three-power pact, one of these "newspapermen" in Berlin spoke savagely about the "stupidity" of his countrymen who would not recognise the benefits of the new order but continued to look to Russia.

A few days later we were in Leipzig for the opening of the famous fair. The program of an official dinner was interrupted for the announcement that Nazi troops that morning—actually it was days earlier—had crossed the Balkan border. The Bulgarian correspondents led the cheering for their country's downfall. Boris, sensitive to his people's feelings, was reported several times prepared to abdicate before he agreed. So delicate has the situation remained ever since that Bulgarians, alone of the three-power adherents, never have participated in the Russian fighting.

DANISH RESENTMENT

These are but examples of a pattern that exists in all of Europe. The Danes, who believed they could make a deal with Hitler, have found it wouldn't work and wish passionately now that they had gone down fighting, no matter how briefly. Their resentment is certain to flare back against the government which made the tragic bargain.

Yugoslavs already have overthrown one government that made a bargain. It cost them their country temporarily, but they are fighting today what in any other kind of a world would be a major war for its reconquest. Rumanian, Slovakian and Hungarian troops had to be sent home from the Russian front because they were sick of the war and the Germans who led them into it. No amount of censorship has been able to disguise the uneasiness in the Balkans.

The Czechs staged an economic revolt this fall that pushed Freiherr Von Neurath, one of the Nazis' last "conservatives," into limbo. Before it could be checked it required the service of Himmler's No. 2 expert in terror, Reinhard Heydrich.

To date the Gestapo technique—establishment of a central police force, trained and controlled by them, elimination of all but the government party as in France and Holland, and the most ruthless suppression of any criticism or opposition—has succeeded in keeping most of these movements underground. They need leaders and they need arms. So far they have neither.

Gen. Charles De Gaulle has performed an invaluable service for the French, but he has failed to strike a spark to the tinder that waits only some modern Joan of Arc, some 20th century Garibaldi, some new Patrick Henry, and some wedge in the Nazi front to flash into violent fire over all of Europe.

(The fourth in the series of articles by David Nichol will appear in The Bulletin on Tuesday, Jan. 27.)

Bishop Lives On Seal, Polar Bear

Heading a party of 11 persons, travelling 540 miles by dog team in the Arctic in the early part of the winter, Bishop Trocellier, assistant to Rt. Rev. Gabriel Breynat, O.M.I., vicar apostolic of Mackenzie, lived for many days on seal meat and even polar bear, he related here Saturday.

Bishop Trocellier arrived in a United Air Services plane.

The bishop left the mission boat at Smoky Mountain on the Arctic coast last fall when it was frozen in with his party he set out across the ice for Aklavik, stopping at Stanton and Tuktoyaktuk. "The journey was hard but we were able to get through without suffering too much," he said. He related that, while crossing the ice, they killed seal and two polar bears for the dogs and themselves.

He will remain here for a short time, then go to Victoria to visit Bishop Breynat.

Dairymen Attend East Convention

D. H. McCallum, provincial dairy commissioner, and a number of prominent dairymen of the province, are attending the annual convention of the Canadian Dairy Farmers' Federation, which opened today in Ottawa and will continue until Thursday.

A special meeting will be held in Ottawa by members of the producers' section of the Federation to organize a Dairy Producers' Association of Canada.

Those attending from here are J. B. Ritchie, president of the Alberta Dairymen's Association; R. H. M. Bailey, vice-president; C. E. Christensen, director; Roy Marler of Bremner and J. W. Hosford of South Edmonton.

No Vocational Training For Women's Unit

Young women enlisting in the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force will not be given vocational training. This is stressed by Assistant Section Officer W. Kirk. She stated there seems to be a prevailing idea that women can obtain training as nurses, stenographers or in other specialized occupations. No such training is provided, she said.

Enlisted women serve in the capacity for which they were trained in civil life. Miss Kirk explained.

Cooks and fabric workers are given short courses at a school in the east before being assigned to stations, but no primary training is given to any one.

Tax Reduction Rate Is Urged By Local Body

Stressing that a substantial reduction of taxes on property in Edmonton was long overdue, the Taxpayers' Protective Association, in a letter to the city council, has requested that a reduction of five mills be made from the present 51-mill tax rate when the civic budget is being considered this spring. The communication will come before the council meeting Monday evening.

It is pointed out that the 1942 assessment is $2,606,825 greater than in 1939 when a tax rate of 52 mills prevailed, and that since that date an increase of $250,000 in gross revenue from the city-owned utilities has been achieved, and also that unemployment relief costs are more than $200,000 below the 1939 level.

REDUCTION NECESSARY

The association's executive points out that it is "Vitally important for the future welfare of the city that property taxes be substantially reduced at the earliest possible moment," and suggests that "New sources of revenue should be tapped that will more equitably distribute the tax burden."

Imposition of a poll tax for the raising of additional revenue was recommended by the association. It was intimated in a second communication from the association to the council that a poll of ratepayers, indicated that 80 per cent of those contacted favored this means of obtaining additional revenue. Power to impose a poll tax is contained in the city's charter. A limit "not exceeding $10" is set on any poll tax imposed.

BONUS QUESTION

The Taxpayers' Association recommends also that final decision on the cost-of-living bonus for civic employees be deferred until the estimates for 1942 have been prepared and submitted to council for consideration. It is intimated that further representations on possible economies will be submitted by the association when these estimates are under consideration.

Every Canadian Household Now Sugar Rationed

OTTAWA, Jan. 26—(CP)—Sugar rationing is in effect in Canada today, with the allowable household consumption set at about a third less than normal by order of the wartime prices and trade board.

Each Canadian is limited to three-quarters of a pound of sugar a week. He has been accustomed to using more than a pound.

He may not have in his home more than two weeks' supply at any time, and in making purchases must limit himself to requirements of two weeks unless he resides in a remote area and has been accustomed to buying in large quantities.

CO-OPERATION URGED

Donald Gordon, prices board chairman who announced the rationing plan at a Sunday press conference, said its success would depend largely on public co-operation and assistance. But the order has the force of law with the same authority —and the same penalties—as others issued by the board in controlling price levels. For failure to observe board orders a penalty up to $5,000 or two years' imprisonment may be imposed in an extreme case.

Mr. Gordon made clear the rationing measure was required not so much because of the Canadian situation as the needs of the United Nations who dip into the Allied supply pool.

The Canadian order came on the heels of a United States announcement that the sugar situation in that country required the setting up of a system of consumer rationing as soon as possible.

STOCKS IMPORTED

Behind the sugar conservation decision is the fact that 80 per cent of Canada's stocks are imported, beet sugar production representing about 20 per cent of requirements.

The order applies only to household purchases and supplies, but S. R. Noble, sugar administrator, will advise industrial users how the restrictions will affect them. When the canning seasons arrives consideration will be given to additional supplies for housewives for preserving, Mr. Gordon said.

Following is the official summary, issued by the wartime prices and trade board:

1—The ration is three-quarters of a pound per person per week, including adults, children and infants, members of the family, boarders, servants and guests who remain for four days or more.

TWO WEEKS' SUPPLY

2—Purchase your sugar in the ordinary way, but not more than two weeks' supply at a time. No coupons, stamps or tickets are required.

3—Do not purchase any sugar if you have two weeks' supply on hand.

4—Persons in remote areas who are not able to buy every week or two weeks may continue to buy several months' supply at a time, but should measure their requirements at the ration rate, namely, three-quarters of a pound per person per week.

5—Lumber camps and other firms providing meals to their employees must see that consumption is restricted to three-quarters of a pound per week per person, effective immediately.

ECONOMY ASKED

6—Economize on sugar wherever you can; some people can get along on less than the ration. Those dining in the restaurants are also expected to restrict their sugar consumption.

7—Additional supplies of sugar will be made available for home preserving and canning.

8—The ration affects only refined cane sugar and beet sugar.

9—Industrial users of sugar and hospitals and other institutions, will be advised by the sugar administrator (S. R. Noble) how the sugar restrictions will affect them.

Cottonseed meal has been found to be one of the most satisfactory plant products for raising brook trout.

Edmonton's Record Of Achievement For Year Excels All-Time High

Edmonton's record of achievement in 1941, unrivalled by any Alberta city, and probably any in the Dominion, was submitted to the city commissioners Monday by City Comptroller A. A. Campbell. The statistical report will be sent to city council Monday evening for the information of the aldermen.

Many all time records were reported during the past year, the report disclosed. An all time peak in street railway traffic was achieved, their being an increase of 1,175,444 in the number of passengers carried compared with 1940. Total number of patrons carried during 1941 was 17,117,517 compared with 16,002,073 in 1940, the previous record year.

Bank clearings soared from $217,964,792 in 1940 to $265,023,348 last year, an increase of $47,058,556 that is indicative of the growth of the city as an industrial, commercial and distributing centre.

BUILDING PERMITS

Power output from the civic owned power plant also set a record for production in 1941, increasing from 69,610,000 kilowatt hours to 79,079,000 kilowatt hours in 1941. The increase was made necessary through the increased production at the city's packing plants to meet demands from Britain for Alberta hog products; increased power consumption through the Aircraft Repair Dept., military, naval and air-force establishment and increased commercial, business and private consumption.

Building permits during 1941 totalled $3,422,925 compared with $2,636,870 in 1940 an increase of $786,055. Edmonton's building total was approximately 50 per cent of the total of building reported in the province. A feature of the building program carried out here last year was the erection of 511 new homes, and a substantial program of home rehabilitation.

The city's population increased by 2,501 stepping up from 91,723 in 1940 to 93,924 last year. This figure will be materially increased now, as the civic census is taken in May each year.

RECEIPTS HIGHER

Gross earnings from the five civic owned utilities soared from $4,686,163 in 1940 to $5,159,871 last year, an increase of $473,708 while taxe collections, both current and arrears, rose from $3,977,407 to $4,088,641, an increase of $112,234, to give the city an all time record for the percentage of taxes collected. Land sales in 1941 totalled $258,052 compared with $201,702 in 1940, an increase of $56,350.

The number of telephone users increased by approximately 1,400; an increase of approximately 550 was achieved in the number of new water connections established, and approximately 900 new electric light users were registered during 1941.

No Shortage Of Farm Workers In Nearby Districts

There is no visible shortage of farm labor at present in the Edmonton district, it was stated by employment officials here. It was reported that a scarcity of labor for spring work was expected at Lethbridge.

It was stated here that many men who work at such jobs as lumbering and logging in the winter, take farm work in the spring. These have not yet registered at the employment office.

Closer Fusion Of C.P. Air Services

Closer fusion of the Canadian Pacific air services here was completed last week with the removal of the Yukon Southern Air Transport accounting department to the C.P.R. building.

A joint ticket office is now operated on the ground floor of this building, in charge of Fred Fisk, with Art Kramer and Al Pierce attending to dispatch of trips at the airport.

In No. 2 hangar at the airport, operations offices are taken over by W. J. Windrum and E. R. B. Field, superintendents of the Edmonton-Mackenzie and Edmonton-Yukon divisions, respectively.

Maintenance is unified under Norman Dennison, with engineers and mechanics from both divisions working together.

By Order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board

You Must Have a Licence by March 31, 1942

Every Person or Firm is Required to Have a Licence

1. if engaged in the business of buying for resale or selling any commodity; or
2. if engaged in the business of supplying any of the following services: the supplying of electricity, gas, steam or water; telegraph, wireless or telephone services; the transportation of goods or persons; the provision of dock, harbour, or pier facilities; warehousing or storage; undertaking or embalming; laundering, cleaning, tailoring, or dressmaking; hairdressing, barbering, or beauty parlour services; decorating, cleaning, or renovating; repairing of any kind; the supplying of meals, refreshments or beverages; the exhibiting of motion pictures; prices manufacturing on a custom or commission basis.

IF YOU HAVE ALREADY APPLIED FOR OR OBTAINED A WARTIME PRICES AND TRADE BOARD LICENCE UNDER A PREVIOUS LICENSING ORDER, YOU SHOULD NOT APPLY AGAIN

Why Licence Applications Should Be Made At Once

Apart from the legal requirements, licensing of your business will enable the Board to advise you quickly and fully of the price ceiling regulations that affect your business.

The name of every person who has been granted a licence or who has already applied for a licence is being placed on the Board's mailing list. Your name will be added when your application is received.

To Get Your Licence

1. Get an application form at your nearest post office.
2. Complete the application and mail it, postage free. There is no licence fee.
3. You will receive by mail a Licence Identification Card bearing your licence number.

Those Who Do Not Need a Licence

1. farmers, gardeners, livestock or poultry producers, and fishermen, unless buying goods for resale.
2. employees of a person or firm which is itself subject to licence.
3. operators of private boarding houses.

NOTE: Persons who have already applied for or obtained a Wartime Prices and Trade Board licence should not apply again.

WHAT THE LAW REQUIRES YOU TO DO

After March 31, 1942, any official, representative, or investigator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board may require you to produce your Licence Identification Card if you are subject to this licensing order.

After March 31, 1942, you must notify the Director of Licensing of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Ottawa, in writing, quoting your licence number, of any change in the name, address, or character of your business within 10 days of such change.

You must retain your Licence Identification Card as it will remain in effect, unless suspended or cancelled, as long as the Maximum Prices Regulations continue. If you are already licensed, a Licence Identification Card, valid for the duration of these Regulations, will be automatically mailed to you before March 31, 1942. You need not apply for a renewal and there is no licence fee.

The Surprise At Berlin

Some one at Berlin has suddenly discovered that Russia has a bigger army than Germany, that it is better clothed, and may even be better armed. At least it is pretended that the idea is a new one at the Nazi headquarters.

If it is news there, where were the official counters when Herr Hitler was making his plans to knock the Red army out of the ring in six weeks? Didn't anybody in the beer-cellar gang know Russia has about twice the population of Germany, and every Russian a potential soldier? Were all the alleged omniscients unaware that Russians wear warm clothing, and need it, in cold weather? Did there were all the experts and their spies while Russia was building tanks and planes and trucks over the last ten years? And where are the eminent prophets who said United States and British munitions could not be delivered to the Russian front in time?

The German general staff knew all about Russia's population, man-power, winter weather and equipment — and prospect of getting more equipment from Britain and the United States. But the general staff was not asked what it thought about the chance of smashing Russia's army. It was ordered to go ahead and do the job. Herr Hitler and his political yes-men thrust the army, general staff and all, into the Russian campaign in sublime disregard for such factual considerations.

The pretended surprise at the size and capacity of Russia's army is just a means of excusing the Fuehrer and his political henchmen for the sorry outcome of their war. They are trying to build up a popular notion that Russia developed this huge and well-armed fighting machine over-night. Will non-Nazi Germany swallow that nonsense?

What Are Promises?

Mr. Meighen is reported as saying it is the "crowning indignity of our history" that a government should think itself in honor bound to ask the public to release it from an election pledge. His proposal is that the government should simply ignore the pledge, and go ahead with whatever methods it now thinks necessary or advisable—to raise men for our overseas forces.

What are election pledges anyway? Are they promises made to be kept, or just bait thrown out to catch votes at election time? These are questions raised by this demand that the Ministers disregard their election commitments. Mr. Meighen leaves no doubt what he would do when he found a pledge barring his way to complete freedom of action. He would tear it up like a scrap of paper and do what he wanted to do; so he says.

There can be no objection to Mr. Meighen's thus telling the public what value he places on promises given to the public by public men, but it is something different when he tries to invest the Conservative party with the same standard of political morality. In stating his position on the question of a plebiscite he says this is also the position of the party he "represents."

Where does Mr. Meighen get any authority to speak for the party? He was not chosen by the party as its leader. He was selected by a self-constituted committee of politicians and financiers, and the committee headed off any rank-and-file protests against the selection by deciding the party could not have any convention. The facts are of record. Mr. Meighen was "put over" on the party, and can speak for only himself and his selection committee.

The issue in this is not conscription but political honesty. Are Canadian public men to keep promises to the electors? That is the point about which the argument is going on.

It Might Be British Columbia

To the Australians the outstandingly important front is, naturally enough, the string of islands off the northern coast of that Dominion upon which Japanese air and sea forces have been launching daily and increasingly severe attacks. These have been followed in several cases by landing operations, and the establishment of bases from which the Dutch East Indies and Australia can be subjected to raids and perhaps eventually invaded by force.

Canadians can sense the reaction in Australia if they consider what would be their feelings and fears if this enemy approach was directed at the coast of British Columbia. And that possibility is by no means fanciful. The Aleutians provide stepping-stones toward Canada as do the southern Pacific islands to Australia. We in Canada may be facing, almost any day, the threat which now confronts the people of the sister Dominion.

But the war—if we are to win it—will not be won in the South Pacific, nor in this continent. It will have to be won in Japan—as the war beyond the Atlantic will have to be won in Germany. The place to destroy Japanese power is at the centre, however that is to be done, however long it may take, and whatever it may cost. The vital spot of an octopus—its only vital spot —is the head. Chopping off tentacles or turning them aside does not kill the brute—and Japanese military power must be killed outright. When that is done its conquests abroad will count for nothing; its signature on the dotted line will automatically restore the property to its owners.

Allied resistance in the South Pacific is growing, surely if slowly. Our forces there are being built up, and will be built up with increasing speed. Every blow struck the enemy forces there counts. But they cannot be stopped immediately, and more bad news must be looked for. Australia and the Dutch East Indies may become battlefields.

But always the perspective must be kept. It is not there Japan can win its war.

V

Herr Hitler is said to have put a death-watch on Herr Goering. Whether to protect Goering or to protect himself is not quite clear. The instigator of the beer-cellar bomb plot has not yet been identified, and Goering made a couple of broadcasts lately telling the German people they are in for shorter rations, harder work, and more grief as a result of Hitler's wars.

V

There are early hints that parliament may hold some secret sittings during the present session. The "closed door" of a legislative chamber is not popular in a democracy. But there are times when the door cannot be left open without giving the enemy access to information he should not have. The war in the Pacific is too close to Canada for parliament to discuss that subject as openly as the war in Europe.

V

Prime Minister King told parliament there is no present intention to break off diplomatic relations with Vichy. He added that Mr. Churchill has particularly asked that this channel of communication be kept open. This should end the demands for closing of the Vichy legation at Ottawa, understandable as these demands have been. Apparently hope has not been abandoned that Marshal Petain will continue to refuse to fight the Allies.

V

Rangoon defenders shot down more than a third of 60 Japanese air raiders on Friday, Chinese and American airmen bombed Hanoi, an American bomber sank a Japanese supply ship of 10,000 tons; and along the Burma road the air patrols are keeping up the ratio of 30 enemy planes destroyed for one of their own lost. Japan's margin of air supremacy in the fighting zone grows less but is still wide. But the rate of diminution is bound to increase. Even the cocksure Yamamoto must give sober thought to the news that the United States building program calls for 185,000 new planes this year and next.

There Are Two Kinds Of Critics Says Dorothy Thompson

Some Are Helpful, Some Are Out to Wreck War Effort and Promote Defeat

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

The war is developing two types of critics, and it is important that the public learn to distinguish between them. The one type directs all criticism, however, sharp, to the business of making the nation stronger through the elimination of profiteering, the demonstration of inefficiency, and the demand for increased social vision.

Dorothy Thompson

The other type of criticism is a mask for denouncing the war itself, for dividing the nation, for creating fears—fear of Britain, fear of Russia, fear of the President.

The one type of criticism serves the nation. The other serves our enemies.

The Truman report belongs to the first type. It accuses the O.P.M. of lack of administrative efficiency, of complaining of lack of authority while failing to demand it, and of blind subservience to the dogma of private war in the matter of procurements. It accuses it of favoring big business and of catering to persons with axes to grind.

These complaints are, I believe, justified. But, the authority given to Donald M. Nelson ought to remove or greatly mitigate the grounds for complaints such charges. For Mr. Nelson has all the authority that can be granted, and he is known to be one of the strongest exponents of the decentralization of production to include work for even the smallest industries.

Mr. Nelson's task is the greatest ever put upon the shoulders of a single American, and one of his greatest personal problems will be whether he can endure to be unpopular.

For if he does his job properly, he will be singularly hated by a great many people.

American Planes

I believe attacks on the technical inferiority of American planes to be exaggerated. Generally I myself find no substantiation for them when I was in England last summer. But that the quantity is still far short of what should and could have been produced is unquestionable.

And that there is terrible overlapping, confusion, and petty jealousies amongst the agencies in Washington; that the defense effort is strangled in red tape; that there are thousands of square pegs in round holes is also unquestionable.

All these things and many other require a correction of current public opinion if they are to be remedied.

Quite different, however, is the type of criticism that is still coming from some pens.

It is deeply to be regretted that among them is Herbert Hoover's. Mr. Hoover's book, "America's First Crusade", is an outstanding contribution to defeatism, both for the current war and for any constructive and adequate peace afterwards. It is also so superficial and biased an account of the last war as to be historical claptrap.

The kindest thing that can be said for Hoover is he planned the book for seven years. Since it waited so long, its present timing is most unfortunate.

Nazi Propaganda

But similar and more sinister "criticism" thinly veiling outright Nazi propaganda is being disseminated by the same people whose pro-Nazi bias was glaring previous to December 7th.

Mr. Laurence Dennis, for instance, former associate of Frederic Auhagen, and himself a much more outspoken Fascist "ideologist" than Auhagen ever was, is still publishing his weekly foreign letter. The first issue after the war proclaimed his loyalty and the intention of indulging in only constructive criticism.

In the first issue, however, since nothing untoward has befallen our native Rosenberg—for that is precisely what Mr. Dennis is—the latter's philosophy of the American Fascist—he has resumed his old line.

The Fascist always betrays himself by his terminology. Mr. Dennis repeatedly sneers at "Roosevelt's crusade" and paints the American war effort not as protection for America, but as a scatterbrained religious war, comparable to the campaigns of the middle ages. Although Dr. Dennis himself is a crusader against democracy, and an intellectual revolutionist who loathes our whole society; he attempts to warn the business world—for which he only has contempt.

World's Menace

He paints Stalin as the world's menace thereby repeating the Nazi line, but he seemed actually happiest when the Russo-German pact brought the two "revolutionary powers" together and promised the destruction of our world. It was in those days that Mr. Dennis was speaking of "the wave of the future," and he still blames Hitler for having destroyed the alliance and thus given a breathing space to the British, who are his betes noirs.

He warns against what perhaps he hopes for: a relignment of Russia and Germany.

No enemy alien in this country would dare, as Mr. Dennis does, consistently to attack our allies and pour every obloquy upon the President and Mr. Churchill. Every mistake in Churchill's past—the Dardanelles campaign, for instance—is resurrected. But he does not mention Churchill's decisive Salonika campaign, for the use of tanks, for which he was also responsible. Churchill is never in Mr. Dennis' "letters" the man who saved the British Isles in 1940, but is only the man who lost Hong Kong in 1942.

Again this column warns the department of justice that it will not apprehend the real fifth column in this country by pursuing aliens. It must check on ideologies if it wants to get at the real danger.

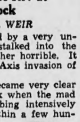

The Saturday Night Review

Broadcast Saturday, Jan. 24, Over Radio Station CFRN at 8:15 O'Clock

By HAROLD L. WEIR

This week was marked by a very unpleasant possibility that stalked into the news, stiff-legged as some horrific ape. It was the possibility of an Axis invasion of Australia.

The Japanese intent became very clear in the middle of the week when the mad monkey men began bombing intensively certain British islands within a few hundred miles of the Australian mainland.

Harold L. Weir

It was accepted as a certainty by Australian political leaders that this signified the Japanese plan of using Australia as a base from which to land their fantastical and ruthless troops on Australian soil.

Only a competent strategist in full possession of the facts could accurately compute the chances for the success of such a movement. I am neither a competent strategist nor do I possess all the facts. Nevertheless, there are certain circumstances that must have a clear significance to everyone.

The first is that the defence of Singapore is inextricately tied up with the defence of Australia. Lose Singapore and Australia is undoubtedly to the point of danger by Japanese forces, any attack on Australia would necessarily involve a bitter choice on the part of the Allies in the Pacific.

Bitter Choice

Somebody would have to choose between the safety of Singapore and the safety of Australia. With Singapore already hard pressed and in very serious danger of capture, because of lack of air and naval support there, it is obvious that maximum security could not be offered to both places.

And yet the sacrifice of one is as unthinkable as the sacrifice of the other, largely because, as the Australians have bitterly pointed out, a British Singapore is almost essential to a British Australia.

It had been thought, because of this plain fact, that the Japanese would not turn their attention to Australia until they had conquered Singapore. Today it is obvious that we cannot count on any such planning.

There is reason to apprehend that the Japanese will seek to divide British interest and attention by striking at both places at once. Thus, they will employ the full weight of their numerical and mechanical superiority in the Pacific.

This threat to Australia is of vital interest to this country because of its political implications. Australia has contributed heavily in men and money to imperial defence. No dominon or commonwealth has done better.

Empire's Future

It is my personal opinion as a Canadian, which you may take or leave, as you please, that upon the Empire's ability to defend Australia from the invader will depend the future cohesion of the Empire, not only from the Australian standpoint, but from the Canadian, South African and New Zealand standpoint as well.

Of course, the defence of these large thinly-populated areas in the New World presents tremendous difficulties.

Under the impact of centuries of war, the European continent has become highly centrated, defensible proportions. But the New World did not build itself in recognition of the continual imminence of war. The New World is built on the proposition of growth, expansion, progress—and peace.

Even the United States, with all her 130,000,000 of people, would be hard put to keep the enemy out of her 12,877 miles of coastline.

A great deal depends upon what happens in Australia. Here perhaps, is the real focal point of the war's immediate meaning.

Mail Bag

Ladies and Geneltmen:

There has been a heavy accumulation of letters addressed to this column.

Hitherto I have tried to reply to each one of these by mail. I now find this task impossible. I shall, from time to time, however, is to answer two or three each time on the air. Here are a few sheaves from this week's harvest:

Mrs. H.B.S., Saskatoon: Do I think Lindbergh should be in jail? No, I think Lindbergh, as a deliberate rebel against the spirit of democracy, is a pernicious intellecual saboteur, should be shot.

There are two letters enquiring if I am an American, one asking if I am Canadian, and three wanting to know if I am Irish. No, to all of them. I am Canadian. Of the fifth generation. Born at 84 Huron Street, Brantford, Ontario, of Irish, Scotch and English ancestry, at 11:35 o'clock of a fine Saturday morning, the 22nd day of August in the year of salvation 1896. Thank you for your interest.

George H. Frank, no address: What is my opinion on conscription? I believe that every man, woman and child in this country should be at the service of the government in this crisis. I am not much to provide enough armed forces for overseas service as to equalize and rationalize the war effort of all of the man-power resources of Canada, wherever that security needs to be maintained. And that does for wealth and industrial power.

J.B., Edson: I hear, he writes, that one thousand Norwegians are being called up in Canada by Norwegian officers on the authority of the Norwegian government. What do you think of this?

In principle, I don't like it. The Canadian government should maintain full control of all nationalists living in this country. This seems to me to set up a precedent which recognizes dual nationality which is both dangerous and vicious. If the Norwegians in Canada or any other nationals living in Canada are not to fight, let them fight for the country which is supplying their daily bread.

This concludes the mail bag for tonight. May I say that I would prefer to be authorized to use full name and address on the air.

In The Crypt Of St. Paul's

Simple Service in Cellar of Great Cathedral Impressive to British Visitor

HOWARD MARSHALL, IN THE CANADIAN CHURCHMAN

I made my way thoughtfully to St. Paul's Cathedral through Trafalgar Square and along the Strand and Fleet street, where most of the big newspaper offices are. I used to work in Fleet street, and to go to St. Paul's was rather like coming home again, to stand at the foot of Ludgate Hill, and look up to the mighty mothering Dome of the Cathedral, and indeed St. Paul's does seem to mother the city of London, gathering the office buildings under her majestic wing as if they were fledglings.

Well, St. Paul's has lost some of her fledgings; all round her there is havoc and devastation. The home of the publishers Paternoster Row is in ruins, and the miracle is that St. Paul's itself has to all intents escaped the wild fury of the Nazi bombers. It's true that the Cathedral was hit, and today portions of it are roped off, and blacks of damaged masonry lie where once the visitor paused to look at the tombs of the great soldiers and sailors and painters, who are buried in St. Paul's.

But when I remember a night last Winter when I passed by St. Paul's in the middle of a fierce raid, and saw the noble dome glowing golden in the reflected fire of incendiaries which were burning fiercely in the roadway, I wonder how it is that St. Paul's escaped, and stands serene and triumphant, still watching over the city. I arrived by chance at the same moment as Dr. Matthews, the dean of St. Paul's, and his small active, grey-haired, gaitered figure mounted the broad steps ahead of me among the steadily flowing crowd of people coming to the service.

No Mystery

One of our best writers on London once said, that greatly though he admired the exterior of St. Paul's, the interior had neither tenderness nor mystery. Well, he may have been right in pre-war time, but now he would, I'm sure, think otherwise. Tenderness in that huge shadowed Cathedral you might not expect, and yet it is there, in the little Kitchener Chapel reserved for soldiers and sailors and airmen, where they may go for quietude and prayer. And mystery, that is everywhere, where the sense of dedication to a noble cause, the peace which is somehow intensified by the vastness of the whole echoing through the silence, the sudden sound of singing which comes through the shadows.

In wartime Winters they hold their services in the Crypt; it's safer there, a vaster expanded, and warmer, and as down he went by a broad winding stairway, past the carefully arranged fire-buckets and stirrup-pumps and hoses which await their next call to service in a raid, and look oddly incongruous among the massive pillars and monuments, down we went into the Crypt where Sir Christopher Wren himself is buried—Wren who built the Cathedral—and near him Wellington and Nelson, and great painters like Laurence. Reynolds and Turner. E. V. Lucas would have found atmosphere there on a wartime Sunday, in that arched Crypt —whitewashed and softly lit—with great candles burning in the altar, where bowls of dahlias stand and a congregation in which there were so many soldiers and sailors, and a silence only broken for some time by the shuffle of newcomers kneeling to pray and the unexpected striking of a clock.

And then the service began—there's no organ down there—a grand piano beautifully played by a man whose monkish head, bald and shining appeared above it swaying to the music, and the singing was lovely—flawless and deeply felt—beginning with the Venite, and about it all there was a direct simplicity which seemed to me very right and appropriate to the times. And in that Crypt, so far beneath the great Cathedral—so far away, I felt, from the noise and turmoil of a world at war—there was a sense of eternity, and it was natural to be led in the first lesson that if we have faith we shall be "quiet from fear of evil".

Quiet from fear of evil, I thought, remembering the devastation outside; remembering the evidence of evil which all of us in that congregation had had in these years of war, and yet I knew it to be true —we could be QUIET FROM FEAR. The sermon was preached by the Dean himself a quiet man of outstanding intellectual capacity—a small, compact, bespectacled man with bushy grey hair, who drove his words home with emphatic gestures, and spoke with conviction and sincerity.

It was a good and stimulating sermon. Dr. Matthews talked of power; of the ageling desire of man to tap some source of power through which he could defy the forces of nature and his enemies, and, he said, religion had so often been wrongly exploited in the search for power. Hitler, he reminded us, has produced a religion of power; he has given his people signs and wonders in his conquest of Europe, and Nazi fanaticism will have to be broken before the German army is smashed.

But, he said, how deluded is the German soldier who imagines that he shares the power of the REICH when he is only a SLAVE; and how much stronger is the power of true religion—not a temporary—but an eternal power; a gospel of the majesty of love, and Christ, he said, showed the power of true religion and power OVER ourselves and power IN ourselves to overcome the world by drawing upon sources of power beyond the world. It did not offer us easy comfort in the sermon, but then we don't need easy comfort, and it was a sermon worthy of a Cathedral where so many fine sermons have been preached through the centuries.

Simple Service

I would rather have had that simple service than any amount of Cathedral pageantry, and I think it affected us all alike. We took away with us a reaffirmation of the true values, a renewed understanding of the directness of Christianity in action.

It was cold when I came out into the Winter evening, and a flock of pigeons scattered before my feet, and I paused to read a leaflet which I found in the church —a leaflet which faced facts, which admitted our faults as a people which prayed that God would rekindle in our hearts the love of truth, honor and justice; that He will recall us to charity, discipline and sacrifice; that He will teach us the humility of strength and the dignity of service.

Well, that is a prayer which many of us could repeat, and as I walked slowly down Ludgate Hill, I remember a notice I had seen in St. Paul's—a relic of the days when visitors from all over the world came to look at the Cathedral. The notice said, "Wait here for the guide", and I think it still holds good, though I would turn it round, for in churches like St. Paul's, in churches all over the country, we realize more and more fully that indeed our guide waits for us.

Plenty Of Room For More

Chile Welcomes Our New Minister

FROM THE CHILEAN PRESS SERVICE

Canada and her first minister are in the limelight in Chile.

A magnificent and resplendent carriage of state pulled by three pairs of jet black horses with a courier and two uniformed attendants, all very RIP Kipperish, was sent to convey the Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon from his residence to La Moneda, the presidential palace, for the presentation of his credentials.

He was accompanied by the Chief of the Protocol, Don Diego Verego V, and by one of the President's aides de camp. In a second carriage, drawn by two horses, the minister's secretary, Mr. Sicotte, sat with an assistant from the office of the Protocol.

The carriages were escorted by a squadron of Lancers in gala attire, with streaming pennants. As they reached the colonial portico of La Moneda, the troops presented arms, a military band struck "God Save the King", a large crowd cheered both the national anthem and the minister, again their hats in the air and cried, "Viva El Canada!"

It was the first "Viva" for Canada in the streets of Santiago, for a sister nation at close grips with the anti-democratic aggressors, a "Viva" of real spontaneous enthusiasm and admiration.

H. E. Don Jeronimo Mendez, the acting President, stood with the whole cabinet in the red drawing room when Mr. Turgeon was introduced. Formalities ended, very friendly chat, both in English and French, ensued on the future of Chile-Canadian relations. A most cordial welcome was suggested and many hopes expressed. The acting-President stressed his appreciaiton of Canada's good-will in appointing her minister as a special delegate to the Inter-American Congess of Engineering. So the first audience came to an end.

With similar ceremonial, Mr. Turgeon was escorted back to his residence, after hearing at attention, on his coming in and, under a brilliant Summer sky and for the first time, the Chilean National Anthem.

A rather timid chorus of school girls greeted the minister on his way home, with the first stanza of "O Canada." They will soon learn it in full and sing it in fuller voices if not with fuller hearts.

Mr. Hamilton, vice-president for the past year, gave the president's address in which he stated that in spite of poor crops of the past year, business conditions had been equal to those of the previous year.

Clear 17 Miles For Winter Road

FAIRVIEW—Over 90 miles northwest of Fairview, between Clear Prairie and the British Columbia border, men are at work with a government bulldozer brushing out 17 miles of road from Clear Prairie west. This work, to be completed within six weeks, will give Fort St. John and Rose Prairie of the B. C. block, a winter road to Fairview and Peace River.

Alberta Department of Public Works has authorized an appropriation of $3,000 for the work. In charge is George Jackson, Grimshaw. The cook is J. Ballantyne of Calgary, who also worked on the Yellowknife road, George Clair, Fairview, who trapped as far northwest as the Paramip and Finlay rivers, will be with the party, and other workers are Ted and Lyle Owens, Robert Gunn, Clear Prairie, postmaster, has a team at work.

Luscar Has $528 For Russian Aid

LUSCAR.—Residents of Luscar have forwarded the sum of $528.50 to the Russian Red Cross in Toronto. The amount was made up of a voluntary collection from the employees of $200 and the Luscar Social Club, through the local U.M.W.A., contributed the difference. The committee in charge included E. Cowling S. Began, G. Kulyk and M. Zelnik.

School Board Has Annual Meeting

SYLVAN LAKE.—C. S. Palmer was re-elected for a further three-year term on the public and high school board at the annual meeting Saturday. Continuing trustees are L. B. Walker and Ward Keith. The total cost of operation of the six rooms operated during 1941 was $9,818.34. Total assets are $35,031.65 which includes $2,000 in government bonds. Outstanding taxes stand at $10,681.18. This is a reduction of $200 over 1940. A cash balance of $2,868.47 is carried forward.

A. Lawrence was appointed assistant to humane officer Jones.

Airgraph Service Is Proving Popular Report Here Shows

More than 90 persons per day have been taking advantage of the airgraph service instituted for rapid delivery of messages to troops overseas last fall, local postal officials stated at the week-end.

The average figure does not include messages sent during the Christmas rush when hundreds of follow-up messages were sent daily by persons sending Christmas parcels overseas.

The service is rapidly gaining popularity in many remote points where senders make up for delays due to poor train service at the home end by taking advantage of the airgraph service from Edmonton eastward.

Traffic Betterment Motorists' Objective Directors Announce

A special committee has been appointed by the Edmonton branch of the Alberta Motor Association to work with the city police and street railway departments to bring in recommendations for improving traffic conditions at 101 street and Jasper avenue and other points.

Alfred P. Gregory was named chairman of the committee at a meeting of the directors of the A.M.A. branch.

Directors of the association feel that the traffic situation, especially at Jasper and 101 street, needs study. One of the situations complained of is that passengers getting off street cars have to go to the curb often hold up automobiles which have a green light signal to drive through.

the school mill rate will be decreased. R. Macdonald, one of the re-elected school board member. Other members serving are E. J. Martin, M.L.A., and W. A. Hemstock.

paring to leave London to settle in the United States.

If this is true, the royalty resident in the American Republic will become considerable. Already in the United States are various members of the Scandinavian royal families, members of the Russian royal house, the rulers of Luxembourg and others, not to mention descendants of the Bonaparte.

Even Carol of Rumania is looking wistfully from his retreat in Mexico City, towards some haven in Canada or the United States.

Now there is a peculiar inference in all this that must be noted.

It would be a most amusing thing if a great Republic which was established on the repudiation of royalty, should supply the strength and refuge of which and from which royalty should recuperate and rehabilitate itself in Europe.

It seems to me that the United States could have much less noble functions than to aid in the restoration of political systems which, far from representing the greed and vanity of insane dictators, represent, etically, at least, represent the will of God.

During the past month, there has been, as everyone is aware, a good deal of criticism of Britain. Perhaps I would be justified in saying that there is a rising current of resentment against Britain.

This is a form of hysteria which cannot be too strongly condemned.

There is a tremendous difference between impatience with the blunders of a few military leaders and antagonism towards an entire nation.

When we permit this impatience to become undisciplined and to break logical bounds, we are simply fighting Hitler's war for him. It's exactly what he wants us to do.

It is true—and unhappily, we must admit it—that grave mistakes, in our judgment, have been made in London. And Australia, for instance, is quite justified in making a frank, honest and pointed protest.

This open clash of opinion is wholesome. Nothing could be more spiritually exercising than to whisper our discontent in dark corners.

But the license we thus accord ourselves in matters of criticism should not be extended.

At all times, our criticism must be fair, reasonable and constructive.

There is a good deal of malicious whispering, just now, that possesses none of these qualities. Most of it is emotional nonsense based on the juvenile notion that now we have the United States to protect us, we can safely abuse Britain.

We see that attitude frequently in children. It is not becoming to adults. It is singularly unbecoming in the present instance because it is both infamous and false.

I don't care how many mistakes the British military authorities have made recently, the fact remains that those same authorities have been protecting us for the past two years.

If it had not been for Britain, we would have had the Nazis on our Canadian necks more than a year ago—United States or no United States.

The British Isles are still our front line. And the British people are putting up a magnificent fight to keep that vital line intact.

There is a tragic tendency to forget some of those tributes we paid to the British spirit a year ago.

And yet that spirit is still so gallant as to take one's breath away.

Listen to this. It's an extract from the London Despatch:

"Edinburgh, Scotland's capital, but with a population of less than half a million people, has broken the all-British record for Warship Week savings.

"Edinburgh people have raised a total, in a week, of more than £15,300,000. (This is roughly $76,500,000).

"The money raised fulfils the promise made by the city earlier this week to pay for the building of a sister ship to the Prince of Wales, and, in addition, to replace the Repulse.

"The new battleship to be built with Edinburgh's money is to be named H.M.S. Howe."

Think of that! Half a million people giving, in one week, more than 76 and a half million dollars.

And we think that we are at war!

This is part and parcel of that defence that has kept the Nazis out of Canada.

It is part and parcel of the glory of that day in September, 1940, when the German bombs fell so thick and fast over England that people were rendered blind and speechless in their tracks by the very force of concussion, when every public service in London was out of action, when all Britain gasped and staggered under the blind fury of the Germans.

It was on that day that the blundering British saved the world by being so stupid as not to know that they were beaten.

We must not forget those things —for they are still happening today.

The Americans are making considerable capital of Japanese treachery in Hawaii and the Philippines. Their catchword, repeated on the air, thundered out in speeches and even printed on private stationery, is this:

"Remember Pearl Harbor!"

It would not be inappropriate if we should coin a catchword of our own, for the good of our souls, we should cast our minds reverently and gratefully back and repeat this to ourselves, in out of season:

"Remember Dunkerque!"

Looking them Over

By JACK KELLY

SOMEHOW the story carried by the Ottawa Journal today that the Boston Bruins' "Kraut Line" of Bauer, Schmidt and Dumart was seeking to join the Royal Canadian Air Force makes me feel a lot better.

As you probably know, this entire line was being called up for active service with the Canadian army. Then last night a story came out of Toronto to the effect that it had been discovered that Bauer was a few days or hours over the age limit and might not have to go on active service, although Schmidt and Dumart would.

That left a pretty bad taste in my mouth. I'm not a worshipper of sport heroes and I rarely go into paens of praise, but just the same I've always liked to think that some of our top-notch athletes were not impervious to such feelings as loyalty and moral responsibility.

This trio of boys from Kitchener, Ontario, have caught the imagination of Canada from time to time. We liked to think of them as three inseparable pals who came up together from open air rinks to the greatest hockey palaces in the world—the Three Musketeers of the ice, one for all and all for one.

To hear that two of these boys were going on active service for their country and learn that the third might wriggle out of service by the fact that he was a few hours over the compulsory age limit was a disgusting anti-climax.

I just couldn't picture Bobby Bauer standing in civies and waving good-bye to Dumart and Schmidt as their troop train pulled out for business considerably more important than chasing a puck around the ice for big pay.

They See Grander Stars

LIKE every sport fan in Canada, I sincerely hope the report that the Kraut Line has volunteered for service with the R.C.A.F. is true. It means that these stars of the ice sheets have looked up and seen stars of a greater and grander magnitude—the stars of loyalty to pal and country and the brilliant red star that guides men who risk their lives for what they believe in.

Bauer, Dumart and Schmidt might have gone into compulsory army service. So far there is no certainty that they would sooner or later have to go overseas if they didn't want to. But volunteering for the air force is different. The boys are offering of their own free will to risk their lives for Canada where the action is hottest.

Every hockey fan will sincerely hope that R.C.A.F. officers will recognize these Three Musketeers as a unit and make it possible for them to fight together. Every Canadian will hope that these three pals blaze even greater trails of glory across the embattled skies of the world than they ever blazed on hockey ice.

Salute to the Blazing Trail

I DON'T believe in attempting to tell any man what his line of duty is, but when he picks the pathway to the stars, then I'll cheer with genuine sincerity. When three pals who are idols of countless thousands of Canadian and American youths pick that blazing trail and set out to fly it together, then, brother, I'll salute them as men with the stuff from which heroes are fashioned.

It is a double sacrifice that these boys are making. They are at the peak of a hockey career which rarely lasts more than a few years. They are making big money and they know they have only a short time to make it in. They must know that their chances of picking up that career again after the war are mighty slim. After the shooting stops hockey stars who have been fighting for their country will have to try to make a living in some other way, ways for which most of them are unfitted since they have concentrated entirely on hockey. They will be too old for the game and youngsters, will be in their sweaters.

These are the problems that torment the hockey player as he weighs the great decision in his mind. The older players, who have collected a bit of a stake, are not so tormented as the younger ones who have just laid their hands on real money for the first time. Don't be too harsh or critical of these lads. Theirs is a tough decision to make.

Winning Goal As Canadiens Bowed To Rangers

Reardon (4) of the Montreal Canadiens makes a futile pass at the puck which already nestles safely in the cords of the Montreal net—shot there by Lynn Patrick of the New York hockey Rangers. This was the winning goal, giving the Rangers 5 to 4 victory at Madison Square Garden. Patrick is at the extreme right about to tumble over Portland (3) of Les Canadiens. Goalie Bibeault of the Canadiens is also on the ice. That's Watson of the Rangers skating out of the picture, front centre.

Harry Allen Drives In Four Goals

E.A.C. Juniors Pin 5-2 Defeat On League-Leading Maple Leafs

EDMONTON ATHLETIC CLUB spoiled the debut of the Maple Leafs in the second portion of the City Junior Hockey League when they handed them a 5-2 setback at 119 street rink on Saturday night.

The loss of Art Michaluk, their star defenceman and Freddy Smitten, high scoring front-liner, didn't seem to put any damper on the E.A.C. squad.

In fact the result was just the reverse, for the Clubmen with Harry Allen providing a very potent scoring punch, stepped right out and took a well deserved victory in no uncertain terms.

Doug. Stevenson gave the finest exhibition of goal tending seen in the league this winter and while the win was largely attributable to him and the sharp-shooting Allen, the rest of the club came through with flying colors.

FOUR NEW PLAYERS

The Maple Leafs, with the addition of Walter Dorohoy and Bus. Johnson form the Canadians and Michaluk and Smitten from the E.A.C. were expected to make a better showing than they did, but it will probably take a game or so for the club to start clicking.

Johnny Black will, however, give the team added scoring power and he will probably be in shape for the next game, his bad knee yielding to treatment very nicely.

Allen played on Saturday just like he did in the first three of the team's games this season, when he looked really good. Always dangerous around enemy territory, Harry sent the E.A.C. out in front at 6:30 in the first period with the help of Harry Nibletti on a power play when the opposition was shorthanded.

E.A.C. CLUB HOT

This goal just appeared to be the tonic required for the Clubmen, for they immediately went to town and kept right in the game to the finish.

Allen added another pair of counters in the first five minutes of the second canto, both on shifty individual efforts, but the Maple Leafs had most the play for the rest of the period, only a stout defence and sensational work by Stevenson preserving the E.A.C lead intact.

Just before the four minute mark of the third session, Hassie Young set up Allen for the latter's fourth counter and Wally Everitt made it 5-0 at 8:30 on McCreedy's pass.

In fact the result was just the reverse, for the Clubmen with Harry Allen providing a very potent scoring punch, stepped right out and took a well deserved victory in no uncertain terms.

Sonny Barchyn bagged the last counter of the game at 17:25 for the Maple Leafs second marker.

Giffen Misses Perfect 5-Pinner By Narrow Margin

Presty Giffen, one of the City's most consistent bowlers missed entering the 5-pin hall of fame by the proverbial whisker on Saturday, while rolling in the T. Eaton Co. trophy doubles event at Recreation alleys.

Presty along with Joe Price won the trophy with a score of 1,591, made up from 427, 611, 495 plus handicap of 58 and it was while on his second string that Giffen just about turned the trick.

He scored 13 in his first frame and then struck out—chalking up 11 strikes in succession for a total of 420.

What's more Presty just kept right on in the strike business, starting off his third game with two more, making in all 13 strikes in a row. He finished his three-game series with a 857.

Giffen's 420 is three pins better than the season's previous high, "Chick" Stroud having marked up a 417 earlier in the winter.

Incidentally Joe Price, who partnered with Giffen, when the latter was in his record-breaking mood, appears headed for a record of his own account this season, for Saturday marked the fourth time this bowling year that he has been on the winning combination for the T. Eaton Co. trophy.

Nanaimo Drubs Vancouver 7-3

NANAIMO, B.C., Jan. 26—(CP)—Nanaimo Clippers produced a six-goal scoring drive on the final period to beat Vancouver Norvans 7-3 in a Pacific Coast Intermediate Hockey League game here Saturday night and take over undisputed second place behind Victoria Bapcos in the standings.

Don Stanley led the Nanaimo attack with two goals and the other Nanaimo counters came from the sticks of Bill Sutherland, Toad Klein, Jack Mann, Jimmy Neilson and Doug Martinson. Red Beattie scored two of the Norvan goals and Wally Peters scored the other.

Mountain Park Loses To Luscar In League Game

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

CADOMIN, Jan. 26—Luscar Indians defeated Mountain Park Provincials before a large crowd of fans at the local arena Friday by a score of 6-5 in a scheduled Coal Branch hockey game.

Game was very fast with both squads battling evenly until the final whistle. The rugged display dished up to the fans included a large number of penalties.

The Provincials attack was led by centre ice man Pete Elock who started his team scoring four goals and assisting in the only other tally by the losers. All of the Luscar team figured in the scoring.

Jimmy McVey opened the scoring on a pass from Bill Stene. Pete Elock knotted the count shortly afterwards on a pass from A. Harris, crack colored star of the Mountain Park squad.* Pruitt on a pass from Clayton and Popovich assisted by Sinal ended the scoring of the period to put Luscar in the lead 3-1.

Boner on a great play assisted Bonner on a great play assisted scoring of the second period. Clayton unassisted scored a pretty goal later to put Luscar further in the lead. Elock tallied twice for Mountain Park, the first on a pass from Patrick L. McGuire, fast skating forward on a pass from Clayton banged in the final goal of the period.

Provincials did the only scoring of third period, Elock on a pass from Collins and Collins on a pass from Elock ended the scoring of the game.

Buckna Gets Tally For 3-2 Victory

LETHBRIDGE, Jan. 26.—(CP)—Smashing the winning goal past Custodian Andy Young 10 seconds from the end of the game, Trail Smoke Eaters climbed to within one point of the second-place Lethbridge Maple Leafs here Saturday night by posting a 3-2 A.B.C. Senior Amateur Hockey League victory while a crowd of about 1,800 fans looked on.

Twice the British Columbians came from behind to tie the score and it looked as though overtime would be necessary when Mike Buckna, finishing up a three-way play with Duffy and Kwong, flicked the puck into the net to provide Smokies with a successful start on their current tour of the Alberta end of the league.

Buckna's payoff goal was his second of the game. Duffy getting the other Smoke Eater tally. Culley and Pringle netted for the Maple Leafs.

Rugged checking, slashing and tripping that resulted in five penalties being issued featured the opening period but not once did a power-play produce a goal as goal-keepers Young and Scodellaro played brilliantly.

POWER PLAY PAYS

Maple Leafs finally took command of the game in the last minute of the period when playing shorthanded with Lane serving a penalty for hooking. Trail promptly started a power-play but Slobodian picked up a loose puck, skated up the rink and passed over to Culley who drove a hard shot into the upper right corner of the net.

The ensuing play continued in the middle frame with Trail tying the score after eight minutes of speedy play. Bobrosky worked the puck in close to the Maple Leaf net and then passed to Duffy who slapped the puck into the right side of the cage. Leafs pressed for the remainder of the period but Scodellaro played sensationally to keep the score down.

EDMONTON TRIO CLICK.

Lethbridge again went into the lead early in the third period when Culley, Rimstad and Pringle engineered a smart attack with Pringle finally batting his own rebound into the net. Exactly 10 minutes later Buckna stickhandled through the Leaf defence to the goalmouth, faked Young out of position and drilled home the tying goal. In the last minute Buckna scored again. Duffy and Kwong giving him the puck after going into a corner back of the Lethbridge goal.

Trail was playing without Ab Cronie who was understood to have remained at home because of business reasons, while Smokies make their current six-game trip through Alberta. The Trail sextet plays in Calgary Monday evening and at Red Deer Wednesday, finishing up with another three games Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Report Boston "Kraut Line" Planning To Join Air Force

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—(CP)—The Ottawa Journal said today that Boston Bruins famed "Kraut Line"—Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Woodrow (Porky) Dumart—"will become members of the Royal Canadian Air Force."

The three hockey stars recently were called up for four months' compulsory military service in the Canadian Army, and at the end of that period would be held in uniform for home defence duties.

The Journal said that "word from a source in Montreal" where the trio played for Bruins against Canadians Saturday "was that they had put in their appearance at the R.C.A.F. recuiting centre there."

"It is not believed they signed up then but definitely have discussed joining the air arm, and one source declared they had made arrangements for a medical and would join up for air crew.

"Air force officials here would not confirm the story, but the Journal's source chimed all three had made application."

Marathoner Also Fast On Snowshoes

MONTREAL, Jan. 26.—(CP)—Gerard Cote, long-distance runner from St. Hyeinthe, Que., scored victories in the 10-mile and three-mile snowshoe race held in conjunction with the international snowshoe convention here Saturday.

Cote's time was one hour, 28 minutes and 45 seconds in the 10-mile event. He ran the three-miles in 21 minutes, 52.5 seconds. The three-mile race was billed as the world's championship.

Eric Coy and Alex Baumann of Winnipeg placed one-two in the Canadian 100 yard championship event, with Coy covering the course in 13-2 seconds. Baumann placed second in the 440 yard Canadian championship.

Canadians Hold Boston To Draw

DETROIT, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The hustling New York Rangers took sole possession of first place in the National Hockey League by defeating Detroit Red Wings 3-2 Saturday night while Boston Bruins were tied by Montreal Canadiens.

The Rangers scored a goal in each of the three periods to make it 82 consecutive games without a shut-out. Rookie Allen Kuntz, Babe Pratt and Clint Smith scored for the Patrickmen, while Pat McReavy and Joe Carveth tallied for Detroit.

Kuntz's early goal was matched by McReavy in the first period, but Pratt's shot put New York ahead for keeps.

Smith's third-period shot into an open net after Kuntz had feinted Mowers out of position gave the Rangers a 3-1 margin that was chipped down a single goal by Carveth while Alf Pike was in the penalty box.

Detroit retained fifth place in the league race when Brooklyn Americans lost to Toronto.

DEADLOCK DROPS BRUINS FROM LEAD

MONTREAL, Jan. 26.—(CP)—Boston's champion Bruins who in previous games this season found Canadiens a pretty easy mark, let all they could do to hold out for a 2-2 overtime draw here Sunday night. The outcome sent them into second place in the National Hockey League standing one point behind New York Rangers who swept aside Detroit on another league front the same night.

Goalie Frankie Brimsek suffered a broken nose in the overtime session when several players piled up in his cage. He returned to play after treatment.

The latest line of Bobby Bauer, Milt Schmidt and Woody Dumart, who may enter Canadian army ranks soon, figured in both Boston goals.

Bauer set up the pass for the opening marker when he passed to Dit Clapper who whipped a high shot past goalie Paul Bibeault. Dumart put Boston two up when he tallied on Schmidt's close in pass.

Murph Chamberlain got the first Canadian goal later in the first period on a combination attack with Emile Bouchard and Toe Blake. Ray Getliffe counted the equalizer midway through the second period. Charlie Sands assisted on the play.

Young Frankie Mario, brought up to fill in for Bill Cowley who suffered a broken jaw against Detroit last Thursday, was one of the most effective Bruins on the ice.

McCREEDY GRABS WIN FOR TORONTO

TORONTO, Jan. 26.—(CP)—Toronto's current edition of Johnny-On-the-Spot—Rookie Johnny McCreedy—came through with another clincher counter to give the Leafs a 3-2 victory over Red Dutton's short-handed but game Brooklyn Americans in a National Hockey League contest Saturday night.

Johnny lifted his stick waist high to deflect a blue-line shot by Jack Church just enough to send the puck breezing by goalie Charlie Rayner for the deciding tally late in the final period.

Tommy Anderson, the N.H.L's highest scoring defenceman, counted both Brooklyn goals on individual efforts. He intercepted a pass by Dave Schriner and drifted a low shot past Turk Broda to open the scoring and split the Leaf defence to score his second goal.

Sandwiched between Anderson's counters, Gordie Drillon provided the highlights of the second sojurne by beating Rayner twice within 14 seconds with goal-mouth slaps. Plays for both Dillon's goals were set up by line mates, Syl Apps and Bob Davidson.

Defenceman Pat Egan of Brooklyn and Davidson earned five-minute major penalties. Egan drew blood as he cross-checked Davidson midway through the second period and the order was reversed later in the same session when Davidson nicked Egan's head while carrying his stick high.

LINEUPS

The Japanese people believe themselves to be divine, not human. Every school child in Japan is taught the national religion called Shintoism, which affirms that the Japanese race is not related to any human beings on earth, but descended from the sun. The Emperor is referred to as Divine, sometimes as "the Divine Lord of the Very Center of Heaven," and his word is the law of heaven. Shintoism has fought "foreign learning," since anthropologists have long since traced the origin of the Japanese people to immigrants from Korea and China who mixed with the aborigines, the Ainu, who were originally from Northeastern Asia. The Japanese written characters show their Chinese origin, but Shintoism still denies all human or earthly beginnings for the Japanese people.

Ducky Skinner Grabs Four Goals

RIVER VALE, N.J., Jan. 26—(CP)—River Vale Skeeters moved into third place in the Broadwalk Cup series, which involves the final 30 games of the Eastern United States Amateur Hockey League season, by defeating Baltimore Orioles 6-4 here Saturday night. Ducky Skinner of the Orioles was the game's individual star, scoring all four Baltimore goals. Phil Piche got assists on each tally.

SUNDAY

Western Rookie Gets Four Points

NEW YORK, Jan. 26,—(CP)—New York Rangers, in their first home appearance since capturing the National Hockey League leadership on the road, gave a convincing display of scoring power Sunday night in defeating Detroit Red Wings 11-2.

In running up the highest score any team has made this season the Rangers kept their single-point margin over the second-place Boston Bruins. It was the second victory in two nights for the New Yorkers over Detroit, and again the light-weight line of Clint Smith, Grant Warwick and Alan Kuntz played a major part.

Warwick, whom the Rangers are boosting for the rookie of the year award, got three goals and an assist, while Smith got a goal and three assists and Kuntz a goal and two assists.

The Rangers, who held a lead of nine goals before Detroit scored at all, tried hard to give their young goalie, Jim Henry, his first shutout. But Don Grosso pierced the New York defence while Alf Pike was serving a third-period holding penalty, tallying on an unassisted rush, and two minutes before the end of the game Mud Bruneteau got Detroit's other counter on a play with Adam Brown and Syd Howe.

With five of Rangers goals coming to one, the others were distributed as follows: Phil Watson, Bill Juzda, Alex Shibicky, Mac Colville 2, and Bryan Hextall.

LINEUPS:

BRUINS WIN WITH NEW GOALIE

BOSTON, Jan. 26—(CP)—With young Nick Damore of the Hershey American Hockey League Bears guarding their net, Boston Bruins defeated Montreal Canadiens 7-3 Sunday in a National Hockey League contest that attracted 10,300 fans at Boston Garden.

Damore, filling in for Frankie Brimsek, who suffered a fractured nose in Montreal last night, kept Les Canadiens scoreless for more than 37 minutes, when the aggressive Kenny Reardon rushed and set up scoring chances that were cashed by Toe Blake and John Quilty.

The Bruins launched a goal barrage in the opening session, with Frank Mario, also up from Hershey to take over centre Bill Cowley's duties, starting the scoring. Thereafter Flash Hollett counted twice and Sniper Dutch Hiller, Harvey Jackson and Roy Conacher each drove pucks through goalie Paul Bibeault. Hollett's second goal, as well as Conacher's came when Reardon was serving his major.

Canadiens' third goal was the result of a breakaway staged by Buddy O'Connor, who rifled in a shot Goalie after beating the Bruins back to their zone.

LINEUPS:

CANADIENS — Bibeault; Groupille, Bouchard; Quilty, Sands, Getliffe. Subs —Chamberlain, Benoit, Blake, Reardon, Portland, Morin, O'Connor, Heffernan, Dame.

CHICAGO HANDS LEAFS 6-4 DEFEAT

CHICAGO, Jan. 26—(CP)—Chicago Black Hawks crept within a game of second place Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League standings Sunday night by defeating the Leafs 6-4 in a hard-fought game witnessed by a season's record crowd of 18,679 in the Chicago Stadium.

In a thrice-tied contest the Hawks stepped in front with a pair of sensational third period goals to establish their final margin. Earl Seibert's 40-foot shot which bounced off Toronto defenceman Wally Stanowski's shin into the goal broke a 4-4 tie in the third period and Bill Thoma tallied on the rebound of Alex Kaleta's shot for the clincher.

By their defeat the Leafs lost ground in their efforts to stay even with the New York Rangers and Boston Bruins, who are engaged in a close battle for the lead.

Wally Dahlstrom gave the Chicagoans a 1-0 first period lead but Toronto tied it up early in the second period and went ahead 2-1 on Bingo Kampman's unassisted score.

The Hawks caught up on a goal by Thoma and assumed a 3-2 lead just before the second period ended on Joe Cooper's goal.

Doug Bentley beat Goalie Turk Broda early in the third period as Chicago took a 4-3 lead, but Syl Apps and Gordon Drillon both tallied to pull the Leafs even before Seibert and Thoma cinched things.

LINEUPS:

TORONTO—Broda; Kampman, Stanowski; Apps, Drillon, D. Metz. Subs—Taylor, Carr, Schriner, Langelle, Goldup, McCreedy, Church, McDonald.

CHICAGO—Le Fresti; Cooper, Marlucci; Dahlstrom, Thoma, Kaleta. Subs —Weiss, Seibert, March, R. Carse, Stewart, Allen, D. Bentley, M. Bentley, Hamill.

Referee—Norm Lamport; linesmen, Donny McFayden and Steve Neuzis.

SUMMARY:

First period: 1—Chicago, Dahlstrom, (Cooper, Kaleta) 11:19. Penalties—Stanowski, Marlucci, D. Metz (2), Seibert.

Second period: 2—Toronto, Drillon (D. Metz, Apps) 4:23; 3—Toronto, Kampman, 13:45; 4—Chicago, Thoma, (Weiss) 17:30; 5—Chicago, Cooper, (Thoma, Dahlstrom) 16:47. Penalties—Kampman (2), Church (2), Seibert.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO, Jan. 26—(CP)—The stock market maintained a steady front while trading in moderate volume today. Industrial shares displayed weakness in spots, particularly in the candy issues but gains elsewhere offset the losses. Foothills was the western oil feature, stimulated by the outlook for a good producer in the No. 10 well.

Record Number Of Men Are Attested

CALGARY, Jan. 26.—(CP)—The Alberta Military District attested 613 men into the ranks of the Canadian Army (Active) during the first three weeks of January, the greatest number for any similar period for the past two years, officials of the district recruiting office stated Saturday.

MANY EXECUTIONS

Ruthless Nazi Arrests Made

By The Canadian Press

New reports of wholesale arrests, ruthless executions and drastic attempts to hold German-conquered Europe quiet under its Nazi master were heard yesterday.

These reports from the BBC, the Russian radio, from Switzerland and unoccupied France listed 400 persons arrested and 34 executed or sentenced to death.

The most drastic German action was reported in Rumania, where, Swiss sources said, 150 Rumanians were arrested for opposing the government and in Norway where, the BBC said, 250 men were arrested and three sentenced to death for anti-Nazi activity.

The Bucharest radio admitted that 14 persons had been sent to a concentration camp for "leading a dissolute life." Included were two men who had been identified with former Rumanian governments.

Vichy reported that for the fourth successive day the Germans announced the execution of two Frenchmen before firing squads in the occupied zone. They were charged with aiding German enemies and illegally possessing weapons.

In addition to the arrests reported in Trondheim and the naval dockyards in Bergen, three men in the Bergen region were executed for seeking to escape to Britain.

The NBC heard a British broadcast saying that 22 railway men were executed in Poland near the Polish-Czech border for pillaging German transports.

The Russians Tass agency said that seven German soldiers had been sentenced to death by a military tribunal at Muenster charged with desertion.

Luscar Miner Is Rescued From Cave-In Death

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

LUSCAR, Jan. 26—Buried for almost two hours in a cave-in of coal while miners worked in relays to extricate him, Sandy Pillchowsky, a miner for 30 years at Luscar showed no ill effects after being saved from almost certain death.

According to George Plazbet, his partner, both were working in a coal raise when the cave-in occurred. Plazbet managed to miss the coal fall which was approximately 60 tons. On freeing himself he dashed to tell other miners to come and assist when little hope of recovering his partner alive was held out.

Working at break-neck speed for an hour and half with no sound of life from the entombed man, sounds were at last heard by the rescue squad indicating he was still alive. Minutes later a passage way was made through the coal and the veteran miner made his escape.

Luscar mine rescue team under Capt. W. Thomas, and comprised of R. Mitchell, S. Began, R. Baker and A. Werry rushed to aid in the rescue. Supt. A. Hnatyshyn, pit boss J. Brady and fire boss H. Evans, were in charge of rescue operations.

Newest Battleship Carried Churchill

LONDON, Jan. 26—(CP)—The 35,000-ton battleship Duke of York, Britain's newest capital ship, carried Prime Minister Churchill to the United States and now is in active service, the admiralty announced Sunday night.

Last August Mr. Churchill hinted the Duke of York was ready for service when he called the Prince of Wales, later sunk off Malaya, "almost the newest battleship."

She was launched in the Clyde about two years ago by the Queen. It was understood shipyard men worked day and night shifts to complete arming the big ship.

No mention has been made of the Jellico and Beatty, which were laid down in 1937 for completion in 1941, and it is possible they also are at sea.

U.S. Vessel Sunk Off East Coast

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Striking a sudden midnight blow with torpedoes and shells, an Axis submarine sank the American ore carrier Venore off the north Carolina coast Saturday morning and 22 crew members are believed lost, the United States navy announced today.

Twenty-one survivors have been landed at Norfolk. They said the submarine first sent a shell crashing into the port side of the ship and a torpedo followed a few minutes later.

The survivors, all in the same lifeboat, were picked up after 33 hours in the water.

Japanese Mikado No Longer Knight Of British Order

LONDON, Jan. 26.—(CP)—The Mikado was stricken Saturday from the roll of Knights of the Order of the Garter.

His banner was removed from above his stall in the choir of St. George's chapel at Windsor and taken into the vaults to lie with other discarded banners, including those of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy and the late Kaiser Wilhelm.

Confederation Life Reports Effort In War

TORONTO, Jan. 26—In wartime life insurance plays two additional roles important to Canada's war effort, C. S. Macdonald, president, told the 70th annual meeting of the Confederation Life Association here recently. It mobilizes civilian dollars for war use and it checks inflation by providing a ready channel for regular savings, he said.

Mr. Macdonald pointed out that life insurance savings of $170 millions already were invested in Victory Loans by companies operating in Canada. These would buy 500,000 Bren guns for the Canadian army or 6,800 Spitfire fighters for the R. C. A. F.

Life insurance companies are peculiarly suited to their task of helping to convert Canadian economy to the business of waging war. Over the years they had been the chief exponents of thrift, on which such governmental emphasis now is placed. Referring to Hon. J. L. Ilsley's warning to "spend less and save more," Mr. Macdonald said: "This development serves to demonstrate that the practice of thrift is far from outmoded. It has served mankind from time immemorial. Never was its practice more necessary."

WAR FINANCING

The Dominion government had taken stern steps to see that the policies of thrift and sound war financing were followed by the Canadian people. In addition to heavy taxation and borrowing, it recently had taken steps in controlling civilian consumption and inflation which went beyond anything undertaken in other allied countries, a ceiling on wages, prices, services and rents.

In imposing these controls, he said the government had acted "with decision and courage." After the war, however, freedom of business action should be restored, he stated.

WAR CLAIMS SMALL

Deaths due to war accounted for only five per cent. of 1941 life insurance claims, V. R. Smith, general manager, stated. Since war broke out in 1939, war claims had been only three per cent. of the total—much less than had been anticipated.

New business in 1941 totalled $58,142,580, the greatest since 1930. Business in force reached an all-time high of $463,289,489. This gain of more than $18 million was the best in ten years. Other favorable features were: a favorable rate of mortality, though higher than last year; an earned interest rate of 4.46 per cent., the same as last year; and an expense rate, on the usual "ten-to-one" basis and excluding taxes, of less than last year. Taxes, an uncontrollable item, were $336,000 more than in 1940.

Surplus for the year was $1,824,874. Total unallotted surplus reached $5,144,307, an increase of $98,950. In addition, however, and in line with its steady policy of strengthening surplus, Mr. Smith said the Confederation Life had a further surplus of more than $4 million not carried into accounts, made up of a potential surplus on exchange and an excess of market values of the book values of its securities.

Eastern Pastor Is City Speaker

Dr. John Inkster, pastor emeritus of Knox church, Toronto will address a public meeting at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

He will arrive here on Tuesday morning, on his way to Victoria, to take part in the 80th anniversary services of St. Andrew's church there. He was minister at that church for 15 years and was succeeded by Dr. W. G. Wilson, now guest minister of Robertson United church here. Dr. Wilson was succeeded at Victoria by Rev. H. A. McLeod, who was minister of Robertson church until a few years ago.

Dr. Wilson will visit Dr. Roxburgh for several days while on his way west and will recall friendships formed when they were fellow students at Edinburgh.

At his Tuesday lecture, Dr. Wilson will discuss New Zealand, where he spent six months as guest lecturer. He will tell of his experiences on the steamship Niagara, which was sunk by a mine in South Pacific waters.

More Mild Weather Forecast In City

One year ago Sunday the average temperature was 17 below. Yesterday it was 29 above with the forecast indicating that Edmontonians and residents of northern Alberta can look forward to more mild weather. It states however that the nights will be somewhat colder.

High Sunday was 33 above at 2:30 and the low Monday was 18 above at 3:30 a.m.

Nova Scotia Bank Reports Record Assets

The 110th annual statement of the Bank of Nova Scotia as at Dec. 31, 1941, shows gains under practically all headings, according to J. A. McLeod, president, and H. D. Burns, general manager. To the public, and to the shareholders, the figures will indicate the active part taken by the bank in the present emergency, including the financing of industrial expansion and the providing of numerous other services so necessary to the war effort.

The bank's resources at the close of the financial year are shown at the all-time high figure of $380,393,282, an increase of $51,710,551 over the previous year-end.

The liquid position of the bank continues strong, as in past years. Cash assets represent 12.51 per cent and immediately available assets, consisting of cash, cheques of other banks and balances due from other banks in and out of Canada, represent 23.44 per cent of total liabilities to the public.

QUICK ASSETS

Quick assets, made up of cash and the immediately available items as above, together with investment account and call and short loans against stocks and bonds, amount to $216,528,965, which is 63.10 per cent of total liabilities to the public.

The total of investments is $132,116,215 compared with $131,117,218—Dominion and provincial government securities maturing within two years total $50,907,187, an increase of $1,536,148—Dominion and provincial government securities of longer terms total $58,526,070, practically the same as a year ago. Municipal and other securities of $22,682,957 show a small reduction.

Current loans in Canada, amounting to $106,195,902, show an increase of $12,856,886, and current loans elsewhere are reduced $843,312, making a net increase in such loans of roughly $12,000,000.

Loans to provincial governments, cities and municipalities are down approximately $1,000,000. Call and short loans secured by stocks and bonds are reduced $1,415,917, and now total $3,970,255.

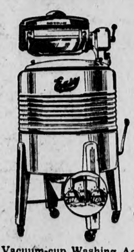

Deposits show an increase for the year, although heavy withdrawals were made by depositors for investment in the Victory Loan. Deposits other than from banks total $297,571,331, an increase of $27,931,667, in the year. Of this increase over $3,000,000 is in deposits of the dominion and provincial governments; over $21,000,000 in deposits by the public (non-interest bearing); and almost $3,000,000 in interest-bearing deposits from the public.

PLEBISCITE PROPOSAL CRITICIZED

C.C.F. Calls For Conscription Of Manpower, Resources

General Election Asked If Government Shrinks From Its Responsibility

Decision of the Dominion government to hold a plebiscite on conscription was referred to as "weak-kneed, procrastinating and responsibility-shunting" in a resolution unanimously passed here Saturday by the Alberta Farmer-Labor Party (C.C.F.) calling for total conscription of material, resources and manpower, and an acceptance by the government of the responsibility for instituting that conscription. The resolution was passed at the convention of the party in the I.O.O.F. hall, 103 street.

Demand for an immediate general election was called for in the resolution if the government "shrinks from the responsibility" so that the people of Canada "may not only decide the future policy but shall decide who shall administer that policy."

Should the government persist in holding a plebiscite the convention demanded that the question "are you in favor of total conscription of wealth for total war and victory over the Axis?" be added to the plebiscite.

The resolution was one of five presented by the special resolution committee headed by G. G. Cushing of Calgary. They were passed by a unanimous standing vote of more than 200 delegates to the convention.

RESOLUTION

The resolution on conscription read as follows:

Whereas conscription of all material and human resources is essential to a total war effort, and whereas for reasons political or otherwise, our government has up to this time managed to avoid the issue, and is passing legislation under the National Resources Mobilization Act, taking power to control and use material resources but which power has never been executed, and on the other hand is taking shelter behind the prime minister's election vote-getting pledge given at the last election, and

Whereas now when the demand for more men and more material has become too urgent to be further ignored, the government proposes a plebiscite which would relieve the prime minister from his pledge, but give no guaranties of subsequent effective action;

Therefore be it resolved that the C.C.F. are opposed to weak-kneed procrastinating, responsibility - shunting plebisciting, and urge first that the government should at once accept responsibility

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

With Prime Minister Mackenzie King announcing the government's intention to hold a plebiscite on conscription of manpower for overseas service, the Inquiring Reporter today asked: "Is such conscription necessary?"

THE ANSWERS

ALD. JAMES H. OGILVIE, barrister: Conscription for service in any theatre of war or industry is long overdue. Its adoption is vitally necessary to enable the nation to carry on balanced, effective war action. It is not a question of sending more divisions to England. It is not necessarily even a question of raising more training more divisions in Canada. It is a question of the government failing to limit the supreme and proper authority of being able to raise whatever number of men "total war" dictates it should raise, and by the quickest, most efficient means.

LEN LORDON, salesman: It seems to me that there is only one service for Canada. It is the service of doing, or being compelled to do, whatever we best can do at any time or place to defeat our enemies and to save Canada. Let us drop this foolish distinction between "home" and "overseas" service. This is a matter of policy for the government. Such an important question should not be left to the whim of the individual nor to the individual's convenience.

HARRY JENKINS, carpenter: I cannot see why there should be so much fuss about putting conscription — total conscription — into effect. All that conscription would mean would be that the government would have the power to use the country's manpower when and where it could be used most effectively. Common sense dictates and demands this policy.

Membership meeting of the McCauley Community League will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Patricia hall, 95 street and 109 avenue. All members and others interested are asked to attend. O. J. Skode, president, will be chairman.

Eastern Canadian factories are humming day and night in order to put every facility at the command into the war, Ronald Maunder, manager of the National Home Furniture, Ltd., said Saturday after he returned from a three-weeks' buying trip to eastern Canada.

A curtailment of production of some articles of ordinary need, especially those made from steel and other essentials to war materials, was forecast by H. L. Baltzan, general manager of the Crescent Furniture Co., upon his return from a business trip to Winnipeg.

Capt. Rev. C. F. A. Clough, former rector of St. Faith's Anglican parish, Edmonton, and now chaplain to the R.C.A.S.C. station at Red Deer training camp, is a visitor in the city. Monday he paid a courtesy call on Mayor John W. Fry.

There are several vacancies in the R.C.A.F. for male stenographers and clerks, officers at recruiting headquarters stated Monday. Those making application should be quite lifted at typing and shorthand. Application should be made to F.O. Penfield, in charge of ground crew enlistments.

Lieut. G. K. Crawford is temporarily in command of the Edmonton division of the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve during the absence of Lieut. Colin S. Glassco, who is on leave in eastern Canada. In keeping with the naval tradition of giving the name of a ship to all land naval establishments, the Edmonton division is now known as H.M.C.S. Nonsuch.

Informations will be laid this week against four of the 18 persons who proceeded to change one-family into multiple dwellings after their application to make the change had been refused by the Zoning Appeal Board, it was announced Monday by an official of the city architect's office. Other prosecutions will be proceeded with in the near future. It is expected the four cases now being prosecuted will be tried on Tuesday of next week.

Ronning Chosen President New Political Body

Delegates to the annual convention of the C.C.F. party, held Saturday at the I.O.O.F. hall, 103 street, by unanimous vote elected Chester A. Ronning, Camrose, as president of the newly formed Alberta Farmer-Labor party, (C.C.F.). Following his election he was accorded a great ovation by the 200 delegates attending the convention session. Mr. Ronning was chairman of the C.C.F. central council, and the recognized leader of the party in Alberta. This council is now superseded by the newly formed party.

Other officers elected were H. W. Miller, Edmonton, as first vice-president, and Henry Young, Hylo, as second vice-president. Miss Mary Crawford, Edmonton, was elected treasurer. Mr. Miller is a past-vice president of the Canadian Labor Party, Alberta section, while Mr. Young was chairman of the general membership section of the C.C.F. Both organizations are now merged in the new party.

PROVINCIAL BOARD

Elected to the provincial board were: S. Lefarud, Camrose; Robert Alderman, Calgary; Ald. R. D. Ainlay, Edmonton; H. E. Spencer,

Getting Around
with Jack DeLong

War produces numerous heroes and heroines. By its very nature war's requirements constitute a constant challenge to the highest in courage and tenacity that humans possess. The state rewards openly and with fitting pomp and ceremony many of those who perform with outstanding distinction and gallantry on the field of battle or on the war-lashed seven seas of the earth.

But there are many heroes and heroines, too, whose acts of gallantry and fortitude are performed amid the apparent peace and quiet of every-day life. Because the deeds are not performed amid the tumult and terror of battle, and because no martial music salutes their deeds, we seldom think of these heroes and heroines of peace.

Such a hero was the late Lou Gehrig, famed and beloved first baseman of the New York Yankees baseball team who died recently of a form of infantile paralysis. And such a heroine was his wife, Eleanor Gehrig.

Both knew that only death awaited Lou before two short years would pass into history. But when thousands of fans staged a magnificent demonstration of affection for Lou in a farewell ceremony in the Yankee stadium, the gallant Gehrig uttered these words in farewell.

"For the past two weeks you have been reading about a bad break I got. Yet today I consider myself the luckiest man on the face of the earth."

Eleanor Gehrig fought a constant fight to keep the worst from her husband although he really knew the worst himself. He in turn pretended he did not know he was doomed to die in a few short months.

This "gay" and gallant deception was kept up even after the paralysis became so severe that cigarettes had to be lighted for the once great baseball star. Yet not once did a word pass the lips of either concerning the affliction of Gehrig. Life itself is truly a battlefield where heroism is ever present.

Weather in Edmonton this winter has been so warm that Alberta robins down in Florida are persuading the local birds to come north with them, according to reports from the south.

The mildness of the present winter brings to mind a suggestion an American engineer advanced for putting a stop to European wars. He contended that a canal cutting across Guatemala would divert the gulf stream from its course and freeze Europe out in quick order. There are many objections to this plan at the present moment, but we wonder if something similar might not be done with the Japan current.

Challenge To Conscript Wealth, Manpower, Is Hurled By Speaker

Challenge to conscript wealth as well as manpower was flung at Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King by Mrs. Dorothy G. Steeves, C.C.F. member for North Vancouver in the British Columbia legislature, in an address Saturday night at a public meeting held at the Empire theatre under the auspices of the newly formed Alberta Farmer-Labor party (C.C.F.).

"The time has come when the progressive people of Canada and the C.C.F. must say to the government either we have total mobilization of resources and industry and after that conscription of manpower, or we shall lose the war," Mrs. Steeves declared.

"I am very suspicious that all this talk about conscription means just conscription of manpower and not all resources," the British Columbian declared, and added that the mobilization of manpower will be a serious deterrent to the war effort if unaccompanied by an adequate mobilization of resources and finance.

Mrs. Steeves was introduced by E. E. Roper. W. H. Irvine, party organizer, to a short address prior to the address of Mrs. Steeves, paid tribute to the marvelous stand that Russia is making for democracy, and stated that changes must be made in Canada if victory is to come.

"There would be such an overwhelming vote of "yes" to a conscription of wealth question that Prime Minister King does not dare ask for it in his proposed plebiscite," Mrs. Steeves asserted. "The nation's support of wealth conscription would shake the very stronghold of capitalism to its foundation," she stated.

The C.C.F. advocates immediate conscription of wealth, she added, and explained the meaning of this term as "the bringing of industry and all war industries under government control and operation. The party wants worker control also, she added. This means that representatives of labor would sit on control boards, she explained.

SOCIAL SERVICES

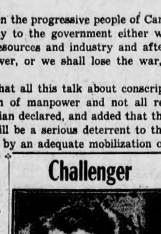

The C.C.F. also desire a ceiling on all incomes as well as wages. It advocates compulsory loans to the government, without interest. This means the conscription of savings. Money lying idle in banks should be put to work in industries for victory, she stated.

There is need for better systems of old age and blind pensions. Mrs. Steeves continued, and social services and health services in Canada lag far behind other countries in the British Empire.

"We should start on social services now, even in wartime," she

Two Young Austrian-Born Men

Their Applications Under Review

* * * * * * * * * * *

Want To Fight With Air Force

Born in the country stigmatized as the birth-place of Adolf Hitler, two young men of Austrian birth, residing in the Athabasca district, have applied to enlist in the R.C.A.F.

F.O. A. M. Muir, in charge of a R.C.A.F. mobile recruiting unit in No. 3 recruiting district, returned to Edmonton Saturday, following a tour of the area north and west of the city.

Feature of his trip was the eagerness displayed by J. Merschitz, Austrian-born school janitor, who walked 20 miles through the snow to offer his services.

TRIED REPEATEDLY

Merschitz, who came to Canada in 1930, is married to a Canadian girl. He has tried repeatedly to enlist in one or another branch of the fighting services.

The fact he has not yet obtained his naturalization papers has so far resulted in his rejection. The air force is giving consideration to his application. He wants to be a pilot.

"I like Canada and think I should fight for her. I don't want to ever live in Austria again," Merschitz told F.O. Muir.

A. J. Schinkinger of Athabasca is another Austrian-born youth who wants to fight for Canada. His father fought in the Austrian army for four years in the First Great War. The son came here when he was four years old. The father told F.O. Muir he is very anxious to have his boy join in the fight against Hitler. His application is also being given serious consideration.

Edmonton Sea Cadet Corps To Have Complete Reorganization

* * * * * * * * * * *

Seamanship Will Play Leading Role

* * * * * * * * * * *

Revamping and reorganization of the Edmonton section of the Sea Cadet Corps of Canada was announced Monday by Lieut. George Crawford, acting commander of the Edmonton Division of the R.C.N.V.R.

Lieut. Crawford stated it is the purpose of city naval authorities here to step up the training of sea cadets from now on. The sea cadets are sponsored by the Navy League of Canada. H. H. Sisen, K.C., is president of the Edmonton branch of the league. Headquarters of the corps here are in the R.C.N.V.R. barracks.

In keeping with naval tradition the headquarters has the name of Warrior, after a ship of the Royal Navy.

Boys from 12 to 18 are eligible to join the Sea Cadet Corps. Sea cadets are given preference when naval personnel is being selected.

PRACTICAL INSTRUCTION

From now on it is planned to give a great deal more practical instruction to the cadets, with seamanship playing a leading role.

Bird, Gopher Are Witnessed: Must Be Spring

Birds and gophers, Spring must be here. Last week somebody reported seeing a gopher in a country district. Not to be outdone, an Edmonton man has a better story to tell.

J. E. Hazelwood, 9616 86 street, declared he "saw with my own eyes" a robin on the eaves of a residence at 96 avenue and 103 street.

Just to make sure he wasn't suffering Sunday morning hallucinations, he showed a friend and the friend saw it too.

Has anybody seen a dandelion yet?

A permanent recruiting officer from the R.C.N.V.R. will be placed in charge of recruiting for the cadet corps at the barracks here. There will be recruiting each Wednesday between 7:30 and 10 p.m. It is planned to issue uniforms to all cadets. These uniforms will be almost exactly the same as those worn by members of the R.C.N.V.R.

It is planned to step the Edmonton division up from its present strength of about 70 to 150 as soon as possible.

In the summer cadets will be taken to one of the lakes best suited in this part of the province for practical courses in seamanship. There will also be rifle and squad drill and swimming lessons. Organization of a bugle band is also planned.

Scotsmen Pay Warm Tribute Robert Burns

Scotsmen in Edmonton and district, in common with their kinsmen throughout Canada and the world, honored their national poet Robert "Rabbie" Burns in song and story at many functions held in the city Saturday night, the 183rd anniversary of the birth of the famous Scottish poet.

It was the same the world over. Wherever Scotsmen gathered they toasted the "Immortal Memory."

Revered as a national poet by the Scottish nation, with talents largely based on a native ballad tradition, Burns has been taken to the hearts of all Scotsmen.

It has been said that when a Scotsman leaves his native land, he takes with him, first his Bible, then his volume of Burns and then such other belongings as he can.

BELOVED BY ALL

The reason is not hard to find. Burns goes right to the hearts of persons of all classes and creeds. Whether it is in declaring "A Man's a man for a' that," or whether it is a stirring cry, such as "Liberty's in every blow, Let us do or die," or in a tender love lyric, his appeal is to the heart.

Main function of the anniversary celebrations was the annual Burns' Club dinner at the Macdonald hotel at which J. Boyd McBride, K.C., spoke and proposed the toast to the "Immortal Memory". Robert Muir and S. H. McQuaig, K.C., also spoke.

ANOTHER FETE

A celebration in the bard's honor was held at the Ali Saints' parish hall, 103 street, under the auspices of the Orkney, Shetland and Caithness society. Robert Muir addressed this gathering of the "Immortal Memory".

At the same time the Edmonton Scottish society gathered at the I. O. O. F. hall, 112 avenue and 95 street, to pay tribute, by means of a concert and dance, with J. F. Lymburn, K.C., proposing the toast. D. C. Ramsay was chairman. Scottish dishes were served and a program of Scottish songs and dances was enjoyed.

Sleigh-Riding Crash Is Fatal To Indian Boy

Sleigh - riding on the highway near St. Albert, nine miles north of Edmonton, ended tragically Saturday when Joseph Stamp, 10-year-old Indian youth from Saddle Lake, careened his sled into an auto driven by Joseph Ronault, farmer of the district, and received a fractured skull. The boy was rushed to the Misericordia hospital in Edmonton but died at 12:15 p.m., a little more than one hour after he was admitted.

The boy, according to R.C.M.P. reports, along with eight other youths from the Indian school at St. Albert, was sleighing on a hill on the highway about two miles east of the town, near the junction of a crossroad. Young Stamp was first down the hill and as he reached the bottom his sled crashed into the car which was travelling along the crossroad. Others were sliding down the hill behind Stamp managed to bring their sleighs to a stop.

TRAVELLING FAST

The boy's sleigh was equipped with steel runners and due to a large quantity of ice on the road, police stated that he was travelling at about 30 miles an hour when the impact took place. It appears that the sled and Ronault's car arrived in the centre of the crossing at exactly the same moment. The driver, police state, was proceeding at a moderate rate of speed and although he swerved sharply to the right could not avoid the mishap.

Young Stamp struck the vehicle between the front and rear wheels. The sleigh was stopped as the impact took place but the lad slid beneath the car and smashed his head against the under-carriage. The rear wheel of the auto passed over his legs and broke them.

GIVEN FIRST AID

Mr. Ronault stopped immediately and, picking up the injured boy rushed him to St. Albert where Dr. Poirier, after administering first aid treatment, brought him to hospital in Edmonton. The accident occurred at about 10:15 a.m. and the boy arrived at the hospital shortly after 11 o'clock. His skull was fractured so severely however, that he died about an hour later.

Dr. E. A. Braithwaite, chief provincial coroner, stated Sunday that the fatality was a clear case of accidental death and that no in-

To begin pre-session discussion of bills which are likely to be introduced at the coming sitting of the legislature, Social Credit M.L.A.'s and Independents both will open caucuses in the legislative buildings this week.

The Social Credit caucus will commence Tuesday at 10 a.m. and the Independent gathering at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

It is expected that main discussion at the Social Credit caucus will centre on new debt legislation and the Dominion-provincial wartime agreement under which the federal government is to take over income and corporation taxation at present under provincial control.

DEBT SITUATION

The debt situation also is a major item in all talks of the Independent group and it is likely that it also will be discussed at their caucus.

New bills relating to private debt are to be introduced in the legislature by the government as the result of invalidation rulings by the courts of the Debt Adjustment Act and the Orderly Collection of Land Debts Act. A one-month moratorium will be in effect up to February 15 while new legislation is studied.

Under the wartime tax agreement, which has been sent to the provincial government for ratification by the legislature, it is announced by the Dominion that Alberta will be compensated by $4,083,000 yearly.

Hon. J. L. Ilsley, federal finance minister, and Hon. Solon Low, provincial treasurer, both have recently indicated that they will propose alterations in the present draft.

Dorothy Dix Says:

The one-date girl is one of the social mysteries. She has apparently all that it takes to make her popular. She is pretty, well-dressed, well-educated. She is a good dancer and men are attracted to her at first sight, but they never play a return engagement. Most of the girls who find themselves taken up and dropped with suddenness that leaves them gasping for breath explain their lack of holding power by the fact that they refuse to pet. Undoubtedly this is true in many cases, but it is difficult to believe that all men are of such an amatory nature that they have no interest in a girl unless she is a free kisser.

Dorothy Dix

Now there are two errors that the dateless girl is apt to make. One is to be so pleased and flattered at a boy's asking her to step out with him that she gives it away that she is not accustomed to such attentions. This is a fatal mistake, for men require other men to put their O.K. on a girl before they give her a rush, and the more she is sought after, the more they want her.

The other mistake that a girl makes is in trying to cover up her datelessness by bluffing about her popularity and telling the boys who take her out about how many millionaires she could have married and what swanky places some other date took her to. Nothing scares a man off so quickly as for a girl to boast of her conquests, real or imaginary, for he doesn't want his scalp to be added to her trophies. Perhaps the reason the boy friend never returns after his first date is because he was bored. Maybe the girl spent the whole evening talking about herself and her family.

Or maybe the girl was a chatterer who didn't give him a chance to put in a word edgewise. Or she may have been a dummy whom he had to work like a coal-heaver to entertain.

Or perhaps a boy never takes a girl out but once because he can't afford the price. She is a gold-digger who gets the last penny out of his pocketbook. Or it may be that the young man never comes back again because he is afraid, because she made him feel that she would grab him if he didn't watch out. She took a casual date for a proposal of marriage, which was far from his intentions.

Good Resolution—Budget Expenses

In 1942—Plan Your spending

So many bills! How can you get out of the red, have the things you hoped to have this year? Budgeting is the answer.

But, you object, that will mean pinching pennies, more things to give up! Not at all. An old-fashioned idea—that budgets tell what you can't have. These days your budget invites: "Come, decide what you want most. Let's plan your spending so you can have it."

So, as 1942 dawns, take stock. Estimate your outgo by listing expenses like rent, insurance, clothing, food.

Comparing your own expenses with those of people on similar incomes, you may discover what items are too high. Rent perhaps is costing much more than 20 per cent of your income.

And amazing to see how much money has just leaked away! You could have bought that new furniture or clothing twice over.

When you plan a use for every dollar, leaks are automatically guarded against. And if you buy at sales, order groceries in large size packages—your dollars buy more.

Our 32-page booklet explains budgeting for all incomes, tells how to apportion your money. Includes buying pointers, has ruled pages for year's entries.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "How To Budget and Buy for Better Living" to The Edmonton Bulletin, 60 Front St. W., Toronto, Ont. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Your Figure Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

It wasn't so long ago that every bit of dietary nonsense had its day. But no more. The eagerness with which the American public is taking hold of scientific information on vitamins, minerals and nutrition in general is making life difficult for the food faddist.

At the recent national nutrition conference it was evident that the cranks and crackpots wanted to scramble right up on the band wagon. But every time one of them would rise to his feet he found off on his pet theories he was met with such a wave of refined but ridiculing laughter that he would sit down without having to be asked.

Of course, the scientists and nutritionists who made up the greater part of the audience would not take seriously any such far-fetched notions. But I wondered whether the public might not continue to listen.

Just out of curiosity, I once went to hear one of these "experts" and I could scarcely believe my ears. He prefaced his lecture with the announcement that he was not a doctor but he went on to claim that he was a dietitian and nutritionist and modestly assured his listeners that he knew all there was to be known about food.

Then he proceeded to impress his audience with the value of garlic, potassium and beet juice for any and all ailments, including ulcers. He said that anyone interested in reducing would be surprised to learn that starch is twice as fattening at night as in the morning.

All those statements were utterly absurd. And yet many of his listeners seemed to be taking it all in. The woman sitting beside me turned to me and said; "He is so scientific, isn't he?"

For the record: Garlic is about in the class with onions. It adds to a salad but it doesn't cure a thing. And potassium broth and beet juice are just broth and juice. As for starch, it contains 113 calories per ounce, morning, noon and night.

If you pay attention closely, you will notice that the food faddist is always trying to sell something. It may be a course in eating to bring out your magnetic personality, or it may be some special product. The whole thing is a racket and the way to end it is for the public to be too well informed to listen.

There is no hocus-pocus about nutrition. You need a balanced diet—and that's all. But to be balanced, your day's menu must contain milk or cheese, an egg, lean meat, fish or fowl; fresh fruits and vegetables, whole grain bread, and butter. That list of foods furnishes the protective elements which are necessary to your health. In the winter months your menus should be supplemented by codliver or haliver oil.

McCoy Health Service

While the whole fruits themselves may be used, it is also possible to use the juices, and many times fruit juice beverages provide a very welcome change.

Such fruit juices are not only pleasing to the taste, but are excellent from the health-building standpoint. They provide the vitamins so essential to the body and also supply the alkaline food minerals. Furthermore, these juices offer enticing flavors which make them favorites wherever they are used.

The juices most commonly used are pineapple juice, tomato juice, orange juice, grape juice and grapefruit juice. However, almost any of the fruits and berries may be made into wholesome drinks by crushing and straining. Those who wish to prepare these beverages in large quantity might find it a good investment to purchase some of the fruit mills or fruit presses generally available at Health Food Stores, or carried by some hardware stores.

The equipping of the home with a convenient fruit juice extractor will make it much easier for you to prepare juices as desired, and you will therefore be tempted to indulge in these healthful beverages more frequently.

Those not wishing to extract the juices for themselves, will find many wholesome juices already prepared in cans. Any of these beverages may be used with ease.

Some of the fruit juices, of which grape juice is a good example, provide an appreciable amount of fruit sugar, which is quickly assimilated and supplies the body with an energy food. This explains why those who drink them notice a renewal of energy soon afterward.

To obtain the greatest good from juices, taken from acid fruits I suggest that it is better to use them by themselves, either in between meals or at least thirty minutes before a meal. When the stomach is empty of other foods, the juices are more readily absorbed. Also the combination of acid fruit juice with starch may prove unwise and may give rise to flatulence or excessive gas.

Try taking a large glass of fruit juice as a means of solving the lunch problem. If you become hungry, use another eight-ounce glass of the juice along about three o'clock in the afternoon. Give yourself the treat of a big glass of pineapple juice or orange juice or grapefruit juice and see how well you feel afterward.

Try to use the various fruit juices

It's obvious that the mother gains nothing by force. She can't alter the child's liking for an old habit, she can only make the new one as pleasant as possible or ignore the child's refusal of milk, until he forgets nursings and bottle feedings.

During this interim, when he regards milk with distaste because of its new and disliked associations, it will be better if mother stops all effort to get the child to drink milk.

This doesn't mean, by any means, that he needs to stop having milk. But cups or bottles should not be forced upon him until he has forgotten his determination to refuse them. A child's memory is not everlasting and if no one keeps emphasizing the necessity to drink milk, he'll forget how set he was against it.

Meanwhile, there are all kinds and thus give your body a chance to benefit from these health-building beverages.

Your Baby And Mine

There always is a period after the baby has been weaned from the breast, or after he has been deprived of the bottle, when his liking for milk seems to disappear. Loss of the familiar ceremony of nursing and the loss of the cuddling he received at nursing time, are difficult for the baby to accept. He wants everything in the same old way or he wants no substitute for it.

His reaction to cups, when he is deprived of the bottle too hastily, is also one of distaste. He is aware that his refusal of milk upsets his mother. No doubt, if he figures things for himself he even realizes that his refusal may soften her determination to make him drink milk in this new and uncomfortable fashion.

Points For Parents

By EDITH THOMAS WALLACE

Father: "I'll help you fix your account book. Suppose you put here how you plan to manage your allowance and here how you really do so."

Daughter: "I don't know where it goes either."

Father: "You need more money? I don't see what you do with all I give you."

Practice in budgeting and keeping account of small expenditures is valuable preparation for the management of larger sums of money.

of interesting and different ways in which milk can be supplied. Cottage cheese is one of them. Half a cup of cottage cheese mixed smooth with whole milk, is easy to eat and contains the same nutrition as milk.

Dr. Rose in "Feeding the Family" suggests the following ways to get four cups of milk into the diet: Two-thirds cup cooked with cereal; 1-3 cup in creamy egg on toast, 2-3 cup in cocoa, ¼ cup of evaporated (or ½ fresh milk) in tomato soup, ½ ounce top milk in mashed potatoes, ¼ cup in creamed vegetables, ¼ cup in pudding and ¼ cup in custard sauce, 1-3 cup in pea souffle, ¼ cup in white sauce, ½ cup in junket. As she says, these are merely a few suggestions and they can be varied indefinitely.

In view of this the mother need have no fits when the child of an age to be weaned goes off milk temporarily. Bolster his diet with it and in time he'll forget his aversions and be drinking it with gusto.

Our leaflet, Increasing Consumption of Milk, offers other suggestions for this problem. Send your request for it and a 3-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of this newspaper and we will be glad to send you this leaflet.

Women Have Double Duty In Wartime

By MRS. RAYNOR MADDOX

Homemakers today have a double duty. They must put themselves in the very best physical condition, and their families, too. The first step is to select the right foods to go into a good daily meal plan.

We do not anticipate any serious food shortages, yet we must not waste food. No more discarding of outside leaves of lettuce, of leftovers, of all things that find their way into American refuse pails. We must remember, too, that over-refining foods robs them of valuable minerals and vitamins. For instance, refined white sugar has no minerals or vitamins, yet unrefined, sweet, dark New Orleans molasses is a rich source of iron second only to beef liver. Unrefined wholewheat flour is a rich source of minerals and vitamin B, but white flour, unless fortified with vitamins and minerals, contains small amounts of them. Dark farins and oats are two to five times richer in minerals and five to ten times richer in vitamin B than white varieties.

These are iron-rich foods: whole-grain cereals and flours, liver and lean beef and mutton, molasses, dried fruits, eggs and green vegetables.

Calcium and phosphorous are two other minerals absolutely essential to health. Milk, inexpensive, versatile and easily obtained, is the very best calcium source. Every adult should have a pint a day, every child a quart. If milk is unpopular in your family, use it in puddings, soups and sauces.

Most of the mineral-rich foods mentioned above are rich in one or more vitamins, too. In addition, butter, cream, fruits and fruit juices, tomato juice generously used, and some meat or fish daily, will round out each body's needs if vitamin D, supplied either by sunshine or fish liver oil, is added.

BUSY DAY BAKED BEANS

(Serves 4 to 6)

Two cans (No. 1, tall) baked beans, 6 tablespoons New Orleans molasses, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, ¼ cup water, 6 slices bacon. Mix molasses, mustard, and water and add beans, tossing together lightly to avoid mashing them. Turn into individual casseroles and cover tops with bacon. Bake in a moderately hot oven of 375 degrees about 40 minutes or until bacon is crisp.

Iron-Rich Menu

BREAKFAST: Fruit juice, whole grain cereal with raisins cooked in it, eggs, toast, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Baked beans, brown bread, raw cabbage and carrot salad, baked apple, molasses cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Consomme, broiled liver, baked potato, spinach, stewed tomatoes, apricot ginger upside down cake, coffee, milk.

Mary J. Brown Is Pretty Bride Of Saturday

HIGHLANDS United Church vestry was the scene of a quiet wedding on Saturday evening when Mary Joan Brown, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Brown of Edmonton became the bride of Millan H. Lyall, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lyall, also of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. R. Davies at 8:30 p.m.

The bride was attired in an afternoon frock of Lady Blue, with which she wore a hat and accessories in navy. She wore a corsage of pink roses and white freesias at her shoulder.

Miss Marjorie Coughlin, her bridesmaid, wore a petal pink crepe afternoon frock with hat and accessories to match. Her flowers were a corsage of pinky yellow roses.

Mr. Donald Lyall supported his brother as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Brown wore an afternoon dress in black and turquoise, and accessories in black. Mrs. Lyall, the bridegroom's mother, wore a blue afternoon dress and black accessories.

The bride's table was centred with the tiered wedding cake and lighted by the flame from white tapers in crystal holders. The table was laid with a lovely ecru cutwork cloth. Pink and white carnations were arranged in bouquets throughout the dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyall are making their home in Edmonton and will be at home shortly to their friends at 10744 122 street.

Hundreds Of Shoppers View Wishmaker's House On Saturday

PRESIDENT of the provincial chapter, I.O.D.E., Mrs. R. C. Marshall officially opened the Wishmaker's Home at the Hudson's Bay Company store on Saturday afternoon, before a large and enthusiastic assemble of shoppers and visitors. Mr. A. S. Woollard, advertising manager of the Hudson's Bay Company and Mr. I. Telmer, manager of the household furnishings' department were on hand to welcome Mrs. Marshall and the throng of shoppers.

In a brief broadcast, both Mr. Woollard and Mr. Telmer spoke. Mrs. Margaret Hutton-Potts was present to answer questions on the house during a dialogue.

Following the opening, Mrs. Marshall was the recipient of a bouquet of roses and carnations from Mr. Woollard.

SHOWN AROUND

Present to view the house, hundreds of visitors to the store were shown its attractions during the afternoon by salespeople and departmental managers of the store. Details of this new household furnishing system, based on the American Federal ensemble of colors were explained. The rooms of the house were open to view on one side, and the bedroom, living room, dining room and extra large display room, gave an advantageous view of the whole decorating project.

Affairs Fete Miss Michaels, Bride-To-Be

IN honor of Miss Audrey Michaels, bride-elect daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Michaels, several attractive social affairs were arranged at the week-end.

On Saturday, Mrs. W. Corbett entertained about 25 guests at the tea hour, in compliment to Miss Michaels. Presiding at a table laid with a dainty lace cloth and centred with a bowl of bright spring flowers, were Mrs. J. Michaels and Mrs. C. Tupper. Serviteurs included Miss Ruth McCuaig, Miss Marilyn Diamond and Miss Mary Corbett.

Mrs. H. Esch was hostess at a luncheon in honor of the bride-elect on Saturday.

On Sunday, a novel miscellaneous shower was held for Miss Michaels by the employees of Mike's News Agency. The tea table was decorated with pickles, and tea was served by Mr. Douglas Elliott and Mr. C. Wright. A large cake was cut and served by Mr. R. Wright. Gifts were attached to a long clothes line, each one caught with a clothes pin and bearing a slogan of good-will.

Guests at this affair included Mr. Bert Millar, Mr. John Michaels, Mr. R. Wright, Mr. J. Young, Mr. M. O'Connor, Mr. W. Brazil, Mr. G. Poole, Mr. C. Wright, Mr. D. Morel, Mr. D. Elliott, Mr. J. What To Do

Another girl and I spent a few days in a nearby city and were entertained at dinner and theatre by friends of hers. Is it proper for me to write a note thanking them? What should I say?

Answer: It would be courteous for you to do so, although these people were strangers to you. Make your note warm and friendly, though short. Mention specifically something you enjoyed during the evening. For example:

"I want to thank you for the grand time you showed Mary and me while we were in Big Town recently. The dinner was delicious and the musical comedy a thrill, especially for a small-town girl like me

"Whenever I hear the music from the show we saw I'll think of that evening with pleasure.

"I hope some day we may entertain you here in our home town. There won't be theatres and 10-course dinners, but we'd love to have you with us."

Auxiliary To No. 4 I.T.S. Is Formed

Inauguration meeting of a South Edmonton Women's Auxiliary to the No. 4 I.T.S. of the R.C.A.F., took place recently at the home of Mrs. W. V. Newson, with Mrs. J. W. Scott being named president.

Representatives of many organizations on the South Side were present. The aim of the new auxiliary is to help members of the school in any way. Mayor J. W. Fry and Wing Commander J. A. Hutchinson have consented to act as patrons of the auxiliary

Several membership teas will be held shortly to aid in the work of the auxiliary.

Further officers named include Mrs. F. A. Wyatt, vice-president; Mrs. J. Angus McDonald, secretary; Mrs. A. E. Ladler, treasurer; Mrs. Norman Allin, work committee convener and Mrs. E. McAllister, entertainment convener.

FOR ambitious, untrained men, here's the chance to get into BETTER PAY WORK. War conditions have brought about a demand for specially trained oxy-acetylene and electric welders and mechanics, maintenance and service men. Today you should be training for the work you'll do tomorrow. Be prepared—get your training now. The employment possibilities that exist today may not be duplicated for a long time. It's the man with training that is getting good jobs today. We extend to all a cordial invitation to inspect our school and see students at work.

Officer Sees New High Mark In Recruiting

With 333 taken on the strength up until Saturday, recruiting for the Canadian Army (Active) here bids fair to set a new record for recent months

Lt.-Col. Alan Elliott, acting area commandant, and officer commanding No. 13A district depot, stated Monday that:

"We do not keep comparative month-to-month figures on recruiting here. That is done at headquarters in Calgary, but I believe the figures for January will be particularly good."

There were 484 applications for enlistment in the period covered. This discloses a good percentage of acceptances.

Saturday 14 men were sworn in and on Monday morning there was another large group waiting to be examined.

Interim Budget Approval To Be Sought Tonight

Interim budget totalling approximately $2,822,120 to cover probable civic expenditures until the civic estimates are approved, will be submitted to city council monday night for approval. The city commissioners ask for the passage of a similar resolution to permit these expenditures pending passage of the formal bylaw setting the 1942 tax rate. The interim budget covers the period Jan. 1 to April 30.

Other important matters to come before the city council meeting are the charter amendments it is proposed to submit to the legislature. These amendments provide for the widening of the city charter to permit the selection of a practising barrister as voters' lists revising officer; to make compulsory the granting of two hours' leave of absence with pay to all electors in the city for the purpose of voting at municipal elections.

MILK DELIVERY

Power to regulate the hours for the retail delivery of milk, as well as the right to enter into agreements with persons or corporations to operate bus services to certain districts is being sought also. An amendment to the charter is being sought that will permit the impounding of bicycles whose owners have been convicted of a second offence against traffic regulations.

BUS SERVICE

Extension of the existing agreement with the Universal Supply of Alberta, Ltd., under which the company operated a bus service to Forest Heights, will be considered by council. The company is asking for a five-year extension of the agreement.

Speakers' Panel Organized Here Aid War Effort

For the purpose of drafting a panel of speakers who will discuss questions of national importance during the war at public meetings throughout the province, the "Lieutenant-Governor's Committee" was formed Saturday at a meeting in the office of Hon. J. C. Bowen at the legislative buildings.

This committee is similar to other lieutenant-governors' committees which have been formed in other provinces throughout Canada.

Members of the Alberta central committee are His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, chairman; Senator W. A. Buchanan, Lethbridge; Fred G. Colvin and Norman Priestley, Calgary; Dr. Robert Newton, acting president of the University of Alberta; Alfred Farmilo, president of the Alberta Federation of Labor; H. R. Milner, K.C., national vice-chairman of the Second Victory Loan drive; R. E. Staples, chairman of the Edmonton war savings committee; and R. E. Settle vice-president of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce.

PURPOSES EXPLAINED

Plans were laid for the organization at a luncheon given by His Honor on Friday, at which plans and purposes were explained by E. A. Corbett, director of the Canadian Adult Education Association, who has been loaned to the War Services Committee of Canada, under whose auspices the provincial committees are set up.

Mr. Corbett, whose headquarters are now in Ottawa, came to Edmonton after completing the organization of committees in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia. Also directing the work of the War Services Committee of Canada is Dr. T. MacDermott, president of Upper Canada College.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS

Besides organizing a panel of speakers within the province, the committee will, through the national committee in Ottawa, arrange to bring speakers of international reputation across the country at various times.

Sub-committees in various parts of the province are to be organized to arrange for addresses on subjects of national importance in the smaller centres.

Five Juveniles Are Held After Store Thieving

Five Juveniles, ranging in age from 11 to 13 years, have been rounded up by city police detectives, following a widespread series of thefts from downtown department stores. The youths admitted to juvenile authorities that in the past three weeks they had been stealing articles from stores and selling them to other boys.

All the property, including flashlights, billfolds and cigarette cases, has been recovered and returned to the owners. The other youths charged with receiving property stolen by the boys, will be arraigned before the juvenile court on Jan. 30.

Playhouse Damaged In Fire On Sunday

Fire which broke out at 6:25 p.m. Sunday damaged a playhouse on a vacant lot on 95 avenue between 104 and 105 streets. Cause of the blaze has not been definitely determined but it is believed to have started from a stove heater in the building.

The playhouse is owned by two girls, June Morris, 14, 9534 103 street and Maxine McLeod, also 14, of 9615 105 street. Equipment from No. 2 fire hall responded to the alarm.

Blamed By Board

A presidential board of inquiry Saturday found the success of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor last Dec. 7 was due primarily to "dereliction of duty" on the part of Lt.-Gen. Walter C. Short, left, and Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, commanding officers of the United States army and navy in that area.

BOARD'S FINDING

Pearl Harbor Blame Placed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP)—A presidential board of inquiry Saturday attributed the success of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor last Dec. 7 primarily to "dereliction of duty" on the part of Lt.-Gen. Walter C. Short and Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, the commanding officers of the United States army and navy in that area.

They had been adequately informed from Washington that war was imminent, it found. They had been warned to prepare against an air raid. They failed to confer upon the warnings and the measures to be taken under them. They refused to believe an air attack possible. Consequently the Japanese raid was a "complete surprise."

One result of their lack of collaboration, the board said, was that Short believed the navy was operating reconnaissance flights far off shore, when it was not, and that Kimmel thought the army was operating devices which would detect the approach of planes, when these were actually in service only a few hours each day.

But, while five-man board, headed by Associate Justice Owen Roberts, of the United States Supreme Court, placed major responsibility upon the two officers, it found numerous other contributing factors:

Effective Japanese espionage—which could not be adequately countered under peace-time conditions.

Japan's disregard of international law in making the attack before declaring war.

Emphasis in warning messages sent from Washington on sabotage and the possibility of a Japanese attack in the Eastern Pacific rather than at Pearl Harbor.

PUNISHMENT DEMAND

However, the blame was placed squarely upon Short and Kimmel, who, in the opinion of the board, "Failed to make suitable dispositions to meet such an attack" and "Failed properly to evaluate the seriousness of the situation," it added.

The report touched off congressional demands Sunday for a unified command of land, sea and air forces, and for punishment of those responsible for the disaster.

Kimmel and Short were relieved of their commands a few days after the attack. Another officer, Maj.-Gen. Frederick L. Martin, was relieved of command of the Hawaiian air force. The commission report did not mention him.

Under army and navy regulations, the two officers may be dismissed from the service by the President for "dereliction of duty." They would have the right, in such case, to appeal the order to a court-martial. Neither the White House nor the army or navy departments has given any indication of intentions.

NO STATEMENT

Short was asked by reporters at Oklahoma City Saturday night if he desired to make a statement and replied:

"Not a word."

The report noted these striking incidents:

A destroyer and an airplane teamed up to sink a small Japanese submarine just outside Pearl Harbor, 43 minutes before the attack. It was reported to the chief of staff at the naval base. No additional alert orders were issued.

The army's aircraft detectors were operated three hours daily, from four to seven a.m. On the morning of the attack they shut down as usual at seven, 45 minutes before the Jap airplanes struck. At one of them a non-commissioned officer, learning to use the devices, was given permission to continue operating. At 7:02 he discovered what appeared to be a large flight of planes northeast of Oahu, about 130 miles distant.

NO ACTION TAKEN

At 7:20 he reported his discovery to an inexperienced lieutenant. The latter, knowing that certain United States planes might be in the vicinity, assumed the planes shown by the detector to be American planes and took no further action. The planes were tracked towards the island and then lost.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, the board said, was constantly in communication with Secretary of Navy Knox and War Secretary Stimson on the gravity of the Japanese situation. And the chief of staff and of the navy operations were fully informed and took appropriate action. No blame attached to any of these, the board found.

An anti-submarine and anti-torpedo net guards the entrance to Pearl Harbor. Customarily it was closed at night and open in the daytime. On the morning of Dec. 7, it was opened at 4:58 for the entrance of two mine sweepers, and left open. A small Japanese submarine slipped in about seven o'clock. It was sighted at 7:45 and sunk. The net was ordered closed at 8:40 a.m.

200 JAP PLANES

This was the second of three submarines lost to the Japs during the attack. The first was sunk off Pearl Harbor between 6:33 and 6:45 a.m. before the actual attack by air began, by a naval patrol plane and the destroyer Ward. A third submarine grounded in Kaneohe Bay and was captured.

The Japanese force which struck at Pearl Harbor was estimated at 150 to 200 planes. No additional alert was ordered after the submarine was discovered inside the harbor, and at 7:55 the planes struck. Most damage was caused by aerial torpedes launched from planes.

"Immediately upon realizing that the Japanese were attacking," the board said, Short ordered alert No. 3.

Alert No. 3 required the occupation of all positions for maximum defence.

Officers and men responded immediately when the attack began, the commission said, and exhibited "initiative, efficiency and bravery in meeting the raid."

Daily Task Of Man Must Not Be Cast Aside

No matter how great the importance of world events, and no matter what issues these events take, the daily tasks of man will still have their place, and must not be cast aside in a world out of focus, Rev. Daniel Young, minister of First Baptist church stated at the morning service at the church.

The minister declared that there often too great a tendency to become so engrossed in great events that the common tasks of man seem trivial by comparison, and when great armies are locked in battle, routine things are apt to be ignored.

Cautioning against forgetting the smaller responsibilities of mankind, Mr. Young said there is a grave and deadly danger in simply going through the motions of a job, and stressed the necessity of putting all possible effort into the task at hand.

"Time and again," he said, "Christ spoke to His disciples of the importance of little things. The effectiveness of our work depends upon the degree to which we appreciate our opportunities for doing our duty, and doing our duty to the best of our ability."

"The nation is being constantly told of the gigantic task before us to win the war," he said, "and we must double our efforts in order that we may give every support to the war effort, and do our tasks fully and keenly."

Automobile Driver Is Fined In Court

James Kilpatrick, 11309 81 street, was fined $30 and costs with the option of spending six weeks in jail when he pleaded guilty in police court Monday to driving a car while under the influence of liquor.

Kilpatrick, according to police reports, had just turned on to the hill when he collided with the bus, striking it in two places. Police state that he then proceeded to the top of the hill without stopping at the scene of the accident. His car, it is stated, stalled at the hill top and Const. Arthur Johnson, who was cruising nearby in a prowler car, took Kilpatrick into custody.

The bus, which was loaded with passengers, was only slightly damaged in the collision, but Kilpatrick's car was more extensively wrecked around the front end.

In general it was a quiet weekend on Edmonton streets and, although police traffic officers received reports of about half a dozen minor mishaps, damage in most cases was confined to dented fenders and smashed headlamps.

Sylvan Lake House Destroyed By Fire

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

SYLVAN LAKE, Jan. 26—Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed a two-storey dwelling house in the east end of the town here early Sunday morning. The house, completely furnished but unoccupied at the time is described as a total loss. Damage is estimated at about $2,500.

The blaze broke out at about 4 a.m. and by the time the alarm was sounded and firemen arrived on the scene the flames had such a grip on the building that there was little hope of saving it. Firemen concentrated their efforts on preventing the flames from spreading to surrounding propery, particularly the Varsity Dance hall, owned by J. H. Penley of Calgary.

The burned house is owned by Miss E. Forrester, of Calgary and it is not yet known whether any insurance is carried.

Hog Marketings Set New Record

Alberta hog marketings for the calendar year created a new record for the province with a total of 1,947,000 head of hogs sold, according to information from the provincial department of agriculture. The marketings of last year exceeded those of 1940 by 440,618 as the figure for that year was 1,485,382.

It is noted that the number of hogs marketed in Alberta since 1939 has doubled and there are indications that further growth of the industry may be expected.

A sharp rise has been made in the demands under Canada's export bacon contracts with Great Britain and expansion of the hog industry has been required to meet these commitments. Purchases by the Dominion bacon board have subsidized the farmer to give a price above what the British government is able to pay.

British, American Navies Make Success Of Convoys

Plane "Bumper" Nazis' Attempted Answer To Balloon Barrage Over Britain

One of a shipload of tanks destined for an Allied port, goes aboard a ship of America's fast growing "Liberty fleet," part of which is already in service. Photo taken at an undisclosed American port, was passed by U.S. censor in Washington D.C.

With the combined efforts of the British and American navies having delivered a jolting blow to Nazi submarine warfare, this scene looks almost peaceful as British patrol plane wings low above convoy "somewhere at sea." Planes operate from war craft.

An R.A.F. officer (left) and a Russian Air Force Commander, survey enemy terrain for signs of Nazi planes on Eastern front. Guards watch out for snipers.

Dangling cables from barrage balloons have inflicted much damage on Nazi air raiders over England. This bumper device is apparently Hitler's attempted answer, its purpose being to brush the cables to one side. It didn't do this downed plane much good.

Somewhat resembling a chicken-coop, this contraption is an air raid shelter for use in the home. Weighing less than 500 pounds and constructed with steel top, sides and bottom, it accommodates two for sleeping. Heavy wire caging offers safety from flying debris.

As Black-Garbed British "Commandos" Raided Norwegian Coast

Britain's black garbed, death-defying "Commandos," a suicide unit of undisclosed strength, is pictured herewith in its latest stab at Nazi-occupied territory. This time it was the Islands of Vaagso and Maaloy on the Norwegan coast that felt the wrath of the surprise stab. With German coast defences having been silenced by British warships and bombers, the "Commandos" landed under cover of smoke screens, taking the German garrison by surprise with the result that the entire defending force was either killed or taken prisoner. The black garbed raiders destroyed 15,650 tons of enemy shipping, along with munition dumps, oil tanks, military storehouses and a radio station. Previous to this assault, these troops had delivered many blows to Nazi-held channel coast.

CHAPTER XXX

"How would you like to go to a movie?" Steve asked as they finished dinner.

Nana looked pleased, then remembered that Steve was without a job; that he was paying for their food with his savings.

"I don't think so," she began, but he had caught her first joyful reaction.

"You're going to say I can't afford it," he guessed, "but I can. We need a little fun for a change and tomorrow morning I start looking for a position."

"In that case I'd love to," Nana answered.

It had been such a long time since that Sunday when he had taken her to a movie. It seemed like years rather than months since she had come in from the country and telephoned him. She had felt that he was not very happy to see her that day. How different was her feeling about him as they sat in the darkened theatre tonight. Steve was very fond of her now. Even if that fondness was based on nothing but friendship.

When the show was over they stopped in a nearby cafe for a cold drink. Nana was laughing at something Steve had just said when her expression suddenly changed.

"What's the matter?" Steve asked. "You look as if you had seen a ghost."

"It frightens me," she admitted. "Everything I see him . . ."

"Who, Nana? What are you talking about?"

"James . . . Mrs. Crawford's chauffeur . . ."

Steve's eyes followed hers, then he said calmly, "I am sure you have nothing to worry about. It's been over three months since he tried to see you. And you can see he is with someone else tonight."

Steve's gray eyes narrowed.

"I've seen that girl before, too. Where was it? She was wearing that same dress . . ."

Nana suspected that he was talking just to comfort her but she was trembling as she always did at the sight of James.

"Let's go," she begged, "I don't think they have seen us."

"Nonsense," Steve objected. "There's nothing he can do to you now."

Her lips quivered. Her eyes were full of fear and Steve remembering how her father had died said gently, "All right, Nana. I understand."

Nana was so grateful she could have wept as they left the cafe without being recognized. The other couple were too absorbed in conversation to notice them. Just as Steve said James probably had forgotten all about Nana by this time but she felt better not to be in the same room with him.

Later after Steve had gone she bolted the door and lay awake for a long time wondering if by any chance James might have seen more than he pretended; fearing lest the sight of her might bring her into his mind again. But she heard nothing more and the next day she told herself it had been silly to be so frightened.

All her optimism was needed now to encourage Steve who found that finding work on another paper was not as simple as it had seemed. None of them needed another reporter although the editors knew him and promised to call him if any vacancy occurred. The rival paper was his best bet. They promised him a job the first of September. But this was June, he reminded Nana, and in the meantime he must do something else.

"Why don't you go back to the Express?" she suggested. "Mr. Woodward said you could any time within the month."

"Nothing doing," Steve insisted. "I can't, Nana. Let's not even talk about it."

So that was that, as Steve would have said. Meantime Nana was giving Spanish lessons, making barely enough to pay her rent. Steve no longer paid for his since he was buying their food. It saved money for both of them to have lunch and dinner together. More interested in cooking since she knew Steve would be there, Nana found herself planning and preparing meals like any other housewife. She ate more herself and it kept her from being lonely, so that in spite of the worry over Steve's position she was happy.

Looking back on those last days of June they seemed the peaceful forerunner of the terrible July which followed. The blow fell swiftly on the day before the Fourth. Nana's first news of it came from the paper which Steve had long ago ordered for her. In spite of the fact that he no longer wrote for it, Steve considered it the only paper worth reading. Nana bringing it in at four o'clock saw on the front page a face whose laughing eyes and innocent smile gripped her heart.

Weak from shock she read the headlines. "CRAWFORD BABY KIDNAPED. Seized from nurse's arms by strange man." Nana's eyes, devouring the paragraph which followed, returned to the adorable picture of the baby she loved. Dear little Nicky with his affectionate arms and sweet voice. "My Nana," he had called her, objecting in no uncertain terms when Mark had kissed her.

Where was Nicky now? Would his abductor be good to him? But who could be otherwise, she thought, with a lump in her throat.

Then she took up the paper to read how an old man, a foreigner from the nurse's report, had stopped her to ask his way and seized the child from his cart. Knocking the nurse to the ground with a surprising amount of strength in a man of his age, he carried the screaming Nicky to a nearby car which the nurse thought, but could not be sure, was driven by a woman.

Kidnaped by a foreigner in spite of all his mother's precautions! Nana was so upset she forgot to start dinner. She sat still sitting, paper in hand, when Steve came in.

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. McKENNEY,
America's Card Authority

The war does not seem to have put a damper on the interest in tournament bridge On the contrary interest appears to be stronger than ever. Committees are planning contests to be given for the benefit of the Red Cross and other war activities.

One feature of tournament bridge that makes it doubly interesting is that you never need wonder whether or not you made the right play on a hand. You can always compare your results on a hand with the results obtained by the other players in the same tournament.

For instance, it might have seemed obvious to the declarer on today's hand that the club finesse should be taken, but after discussing the situation with the other contestants, he found that another line of play would have been much better.

When the queen of clubs was played on the first trick, the king won and the suit was continued, forcing the ace. Now the declarer correctly developed the spades, but could not win enough tricks. The defenders, with three clubs and the king of spades, simply waited for a fifth trick to come their way. The clubs compelled discards from the North and South hands that killed any hope of a squeeze.

The correct play is to put up the ace of clubs at once. If the queen is a stopper, it can be reserved until later. It is vital to force out the king of spades in a hurry. Remember that the defenders cannot then run a club suit unless both kings are offside—with the spade king held by West and the club king by East.

But the fact is that when East is forced in with the king of spades, the ace is laid down and a finesse taken against the jack—then he is in trouble. If he leads clubs, he gives the declarer the ninth trick at once.

But a mere exit, say in hearts, is also hopeless. The declarer can then duck a diamond trick to East, and get his ninth trick in that suit.

Faculty Rivals Open Drive For War Ambulance

Med-Engineer rivalry, the kind that produced some great faculty tussles on the University of Alberta campus several years ago, returned in a new form Monday morning. As a venture to aid the Varsity Ambulance Fund, the students in applied science and medicine have begun their "Miles of Pennies" race.

Starting from the Tuck Shop, the penny column breaks into two directions, one toward the Medical building, down 89 avenue; the other across the quadrangle toward the Engineering buildings. Shape will thus represent a V, symbolizing "victory" in the Ambulance drive. Each faculty will have their buildings as "finishing point."

OPPOSING LEADERS

Arranging the Engineers' part of the race is George McDougall, while efforts of the Meds will be guided by Bob Macbeth and Bill Fulton. All three leaders are from this city, Macbeth being president of the U. of A. students' union, Fulton, head of the Ambulance Fund committee, and McDougall, an applied science club executive.

Already each third and fourth year engineering student has guaranteed to purchase five feet of tape at a cent an inch to aid their "V wing." Medical students have similar plans in the offing.

Objective of the fund is $2,500, to purchase a fully-equipped ambulance, for delivery to the R.C.A.M.C. for service. To date, through dime-catchers, "superdime" days, and other projects nearly $300 has been realized.

C.C.F. Speaker Urges Nation's Wealth For War

said. "The start should be made by the provincial governments, and the work should be taken over by the federal government in a dominion-wide insurance scheme after the war."

The Rowell-Sirois report must be kept alive for in it is the blue-print for post-war rehabilitation, Mrs. Steeves stated. The report should be the basis for a new dominion-provincial set-up which would effect progressive reforms.

WAR EFFORT

Discussing Canada's war effort Mrs. Steeves said that the fault with that effort was the same as that which afflicted Canada 20 years ago when thousands were unemployed, and hundreds actually starved to death under the outworn system which failed to give any solution to our problems.

The people who are running the war effort are the same people who allowed our unemployed boys to travel from one end of the country to the other, who put them in jail and turned riot squads loose on them," she stated.

They are the same people who until the eleventh hour sent war material to our enemies, scrap iron and copper to Japan where is was used to kill Chinese women and children who were fighting for their freedom and for ours long before we got into the fight, she stated.

PARTY DIFFERENT

"I suppose they feel differently now that some of that war material, that scrap metal, has come back to the Canadian boys at Hong Kong," she remarked. "The damage has been done," she said, "but those people still run the war effort."

In the last war the struggle was carried on by the top class, she stated, and the common people fought and died, "theirs not to reason why," and after 1918 it was very easy for those men on top to betray the people, that it will not be as easy this time, Mrs. Steeves declared.

There is an ever growing social consciousness, a spirit of questioning in this war, continued Mrs. Steeves, and it is because of this that the C.C.F. will secure increasing support. The C.C.F. has a positive and honest answer to give to these questionings. It is different from the old line parties, which in British Columbia have fought against social services, sabotaged health insurance and collective bargaining.

She referred to the coalition of Liberals and Conservatives in British Columbia as "not a marriage of love but of convenience." She described it as a marriage between two elderly people of whom no healthy offspring will come, but who can get comfort and support from each other in their old age.

She predicted that the fusion of the old line parties in the coast province would be followed by further coalitions of Liberals and Conservatives throughout the Dominion designed to cover "their increasing sensility and inability."

Battle River; Mrs. W. Peterson, Vegreville; J. G. Baker, Wetaskiwin; I. V. Macklin, Peace River; Walter Menin, Edmonton, and W. Scott, Macleod.

These together with the president, vice-presidents, treasurer and secretary will form the provincial board of the new party. The secretary, elected by the board at a special meeting Saturday night, is William Irvine, who will continue also as the party's organizer.

A considerable part of the afternoon session was taken up with the election of officers, and the discussion of the constitution of the new party. The latter was adopted by the delegates with a few minor amendments.

TO CONTEST RIDINGS

The constitution calls for the setting up of provincial constituency associations with powers to elect officers to administer the party's affairs in the constituency. Delegates to the annual convention of the C.C.F. will be selected at provincial constituency association's annual meetings.

The constitution provides also that each provincial or federal election or bye-election will be contested by C.C.F. candidates. Such candidate or candidates will be selected from the floor of a nominating convention called for that purpose. Candidates will be known as Alberta Farmer-Labor candidates. They will automatically cease to be recognized as a candidate of that party if he agrees to accept endorsement from or forms an alliance with any other political party.

GREETING READ

A letter of greeting from David Lewis, Ottawa, national secretary of the C.C.F. in Canada, was read to the convention by E. E. Roper. The message in part read:

"Loyal C.C.F. men and women of Alberta have accomplished a most difficult job in maintaining a place for our movement in Alberta in spite of the very great difficulties which faced you and the attractive demagogery to which the people of your province have been subjected. This accomplishment should inspire your present special convention boldly to take steps necessary for further and more rapid progress.

"Our great job is to build a movement which will effectively influence our war effort in the direction of total mobilization of resources without profit or privilege to monopoly interests and which will also effectively shape Canada and her position in the world during the period of reconstruction after victory has been won."

MINE WORKER HEARD

Miss Mary Crawford read greetings from Dr. W. A. Alexander, former dean of arts and science at the University of Alberta, now at Berkeley University, California.

John Stokaluk, vice-president of the United Mine Workers of America, was the speaker at the afternoon session. He described the strikes at Kirkland Lake and outlined the major causes of the walkout in the Ontario mining centre.

He said that mine operators had refused the workers their right to organize and by so doing had challenged the laws of the land. Special police had been sent to Kirkland Lake to assist the mine-owners in this disrespect of law and order, he added.

Men Frostbitten In Lake Mishap

Two workmen of Slave Lake Gold Mines, Ltd., at Outpost Island, Great Slave lake, walked 20 miles in a blizzard and were badly frozen after their caterpillar went through the ice and sank in 92 feet of water, a few weeks ago, it was learned here at the week-end from J. C. Byrne, manager of the mine.

Mr. Byrne, who has arrived in the city in a United Air Services plane, said the men jumped free when the "cat" went through the ice but in facing one of the winter's worst storms, received frostbite on the faces and legs. They have recovered and the tractor has been salvaged from the bottom of the lake.

Mr. Byrne is staying at the Macdonald. Mrs. Byrne, who came a week earlier, with her children, is with him.

bility for total conscription of material resources and manpower; secondly, that if the government shrinks from that responsibility, we urge an immediate general election so that the people may not only decide the future policy but decide who shall administer that policy; and thirdly, if the government in its weakness persists in its plebiscite, that we demand in addition to the question about the Prime Minister's "relief" the following question should be added — "Are you in favor of total conscription of wealth for total war and victory over the Axis?"

Immediate recognition commercially and diplomatically of the Soviet Union, and the discontinuance in Canada of all Vichy diplomatic offices was demanded in another resolution.

The preamble of this resolution pointed to the ever-growing bond of friendship between the peoples of Britain and the U.S.S.R. as "shown in the warm reception given by British labor to delegates of Russian workers recently arrived in Britain." The resolution continued: "This convention deplores the failure of the Canadian government to recognize our great ally, the Soviet Union, and demands this recognition be given commercially and diplomatically forthwith, and all Vichy diplomatic offices in Canada be discontinued forthwith."

RELEASE OF ANTI-FASCISTS

Another resolution called for the immediate release of all anti-fascists from internment camps and the restoration of all political and economic rights of citizenship and confiscated property.

Keeping these men and women in prison and internment camps "Gives strong moral assistance to the frenzied and hysterical anti-Communist policy of Hitler," and was an insult to "our brave and great ally, Russia," the resolution stated. "Interned communists are among the strongest opponents of Nazism and would be of service to Canada both in the battle line and the industrial front," the resolution continued. It asked also that the "Defence of Canada regulations be rigorously prosecuted against any real or potential fifth column Canadian Quislings."

In a fourth resolution mine owners at Kirkland Lake, Ont., were condemned for refusing to recognize the right of unions to bargain collectively. This refusal was termed "Sabotaging of the war effort by opposing the democratic rights of miners to organize."

The resolution's preamble protested against the Dominion government's policy of sending its voices to protect "Law-breaking operators of any industry who may try to intimidate the employees," and requested the government to enforce its policies "So that the employers may be compelled to recognize the principle of collective bargaining."

SUPPORT OF LABOR

Full support and assistance of the C.C.F. to labor unions in their fight for the establishment of the principle of collective bargaining was called for in the resolution.

Assistance of the C.C.F. for the farmer in his fight for a "parity price" for his products was called for in a fifth resolution. Producers of agricultural products should have adequate representation on boards setting such prices, the resolution stated.

U.F.A. Against Hasty Step By U.F.C. Group

Regret at the proposed action of the United Farmers of Canada (Alberta Section), to seek immediate incorporation under the name of Alberta Farmers' Union, was expressed by Robert Gardiner, president of the U.F.A., in an interview Monday.

Mr. Gardiner stated that such action at this time would make the problem of amalgamation much more difficult and that such action would have the appearance of "trying to force the United Farmers of Alberta into hasty action."

George E. Church, Balzac, was appointed chairman of the United Farmers of Alberta Co-operative Board at the meeting of the U.F.A. board of directors, Saturday. The board met to wind up unfinished business of the annual convention and to appoint committees and boards for the different branches of the organization.

OTHER MEMBERS

Other members of the co-op board are J. K. Sutherland, Hanna; M. H. Ward, Arrowwood; C. A. Fawcett, Consort, and D. H. Smith, Cereal. The first three mentioned comprise the committee of the board.

Three members were appointed to the executive of the U.F.A. board of directors to supplement the three standing members. These were G. E. Church, Balzac; R. Hennig, Fort Saskatchewan, and M. H. Ward, Arrowwood.

The three standing members are the three presidents of the U.F.A. and U.F.W.A., Robert Gardiner and Mrs. Violet Ross, Millet, and J. K. Sutherland, vice-president of the U.F.A.

COMMITTEES

The meeting was devoted almost solely to the appointments of the two committees and to the issuance of instructions to George Church, who left for Ottawa to represent the U.F.A. at the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

The board of directors is meeting all day Monday to discuss and act on resolutions that were not voted on at the conclusion of the four-day convention last week.

The executive of the board was scheduled to meet following the directors' meeting, later in the day.

GARDINER'S STATEMENT

In regard to the move toward amalgamation with the U.F.C. during the conventions last week, Mr. Gardiner had the following statement to make:

The position of the United Farmers of Alberta with respect to amalgamation with the United Farmers of Canada may be simply stated. The convention went on record as being in favor of amalgamation, but subject to further consideration given to the name. The board of directors will be prepared to give early and sympathetic consideration to the question.

It must be remembered that there is a great difference in the relative positions of the two organizations. The United Farmers of Canada (Alberta section) have no property and are not incorporated. Their convention therefore could act speedily.

The United Farmers of Alberta, on the other hand, are an incorporated body and the Board must be governed by the bylaws of the association. It has assets involving a very considerable amount of money, partly owned by the central office and partly by the various locals of the organization. It is a very elementary principle of law that a corporation cannot dispose of all of its assets without authority from its members and certainly the assets of the locals could not be disposed of without their knowledge and consent.

For these reasons it was impossible for this organization to act more definitely than it did at the recent convention. It is the intention of the board to communicate with the locals at once and ascertain their views.

MAY SEEK INCORPORATION

In the meantime there are suggestions that the United Farmers of Canada may immediately seek incorporation under the name "Alberta Farmers' Union" which was approved at the joint meeting. Could sincerely regret if any such action is taken as it will undoubtedly make the problem of amalgamation much more difficult and such action would have the appearance of trying to force United Farmers of Alberta into hasty action. I assume that amalgamation is sincerely desired and in my judgment that can best be accomplished by a clear realization of the problems involved and by careful consideration of future steps by both boards.

Mine Worker Hit In Traffic Crash

John Werhun, employee of the Long Coal Mine at Namayo, was taken to the General hospital at 7 p.m. Sunday with a lacerated thigh and undetermined back injuries following a traffic accident on the highway four miles north of Edmonton.

The car in which Werhun was riding with four other persons, including Mrs. Werhun, is believed to have overturned in a ditch, although R.C.M.P. officers in Edmonton stated Monday that they had no report on the accident. The other passengers in the car were said to have suffered slightly injured.

The injured man is being attended by Dr. L. A. Miller and his condition is described as not serious.
